

Growpetz, Which Offers Pet Grooming Tool For Both Cats And Dogs, Celebrates First Anniversary

July 31, 2015

July 31, 2015 -
Growpetz, a family run pet care company that offers a pet grooming tool for both cats and dogs, is proud to celebrate its one year anniversary. In this time, they had set themselves a number of goals, one of which was to reach 1,000 satisfied customers. As can be seen on http://www.amazon.com/dp/B00KPRWNYE, they are well on their way to achieve this.

"When we first started, we decided that if we were still in business after one year, we were on the right track," says Keith Kruger from Growpetz. "To make our work a bit more challenging, we also set ourselves the target of reaching 1,000 satisfied customers, something that we will soon achieve. We couldn't be happier with these results and have our customers - and their pets - to thank for this."

All the reviews on Amazon seem to focus on the fact that this product is of such high quality and really does what it says on the box. One reviewer in particular had an amusing anecdote to tell about this. "I was getting a bit tired of always sporting a dog and cat fur outfit, of course it did match my furniture," says Techy McTechersun. "Deciding fur clothes and furniture was not the decor I was going for I looked into solutions."

This review in particular has been seen as incredibly helpful, not in the least because of its amusing tone. One of the things the review highlights is the fact that the brush comes with free different sizes, which makes it suitable for animals of different sizes and different coat lengths as well. Furthermore, it ensures the bottom of the coat itself, near the skin, can also be reached, thereby actually reaching those hairs that would otherwise be shed all over a house (and clothes).

As a small family business, Growpetz's top priority is developing "happy customers". This is shown by the comments left by several customers at Amazon. For instance, James K. Ullery gave a five-star rating for the pet grooming tool. He said, "You are NOT RESTRICTED with this tool as you are with a competitive brand that only have one size that is supposed to fit all animals. If you want versatility and individual customization of care for your pet this is the right choice."

Meanwhile, Mary Jeswald said, "The Growpetz deshedding tool is a big help with three long-haired cats. They're not sure it is a great idea, but the puffs of cat hair flying around the house have been greatly diminished. Also, one of the cats had a hairball problem. That has been reduced. The tool is well designed and priced right!"
