September 13, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Honolulu Plastic Surgery Center, a cosmetic surgery clinic in Honolulu, Hawaii, has announced that they have recently published a blog post on breast implant considerations. The article is titled, "Textured Implants vs. Smooth Implants: Choosing the Right Implant for You," and it is designed to provide helpful information regarding the two primary types of implants. It discusses the differences between textured and smooth implants to allow patients to choose the right implant for them.

Dr. Randy Wong, author of the blog post and plastic surgeon at Honolulu Plastic Surgery Center, says, "Breast augmentation is a very serious medical undertaking that requires considerable thought beforehand, and still requires even more discussion with the right Honolulu breast augmentation professional who can deliver the exact result the recipient wants. Implants are not a one-size-fits-all choice, and it is important to do some research long before the fact regarding what type of implant would be best for you."

According to the article, the primary difference between texture implants and smooth implants is the possibility for rotation in the future after an extended period of time. Some factors such as the overall size and build of the patient can affect the decision. Textured implants are usually shaped like a teardrop and are available in a variety of cup sizes. And the reason for the texturing is to provide security and stability for the implant to prevent shifting later.

On the other hand, smooth implants are round in shape and have no texturing that can hold them in place for a long period of time. They also do not tend to shift frequently because the round shape functions as a natural resistor and helps maintain its position for a long time. Smooth implants are the most common in the US and they can be chosen for various body sizes and builds.

It is important to have an in-depth consultation with a Honolulu breast augmentation specialist like Dr. Randy Wong in the choosing the type of implant. Focus should be made on the goal of the patient for undergoing the procedure. That is why it is essential to find the right breast augmentation professional to ensure that the patient will really get what she intended to get from the procedure.

For instance, many patients are thinking of fat transfer as another option for breast augmentation. This offers the advantage of recycling the unwanted fat that is usually found in the flanks and in the belly and quite difficult to lose through exercise and diet. The fat that is removed is injected into the breasts, thus accomplishing two purposes.

Breast augmentation is one of the most common procedures performed by Dr. Wong in Honolulu because a huge percentage of women are not satisfied with the size and shape of their breasts. This dissatisfaction has other serious consequences like low self-esteem and depression.

There are a number of things that patients can expect when they undergo a breast augmentation procedure by Dr. Wong. First, patients would be able to reshape and resize their breasts to suit their lifestyle and preferences. Second, patients will have more choices with regards to the type and size of clothing that they can wear. Lastly, patients will have a much shorter recovery time because of the techniques and procedures that Dr. Wong uses.

That the patients of Dr. Wong have been very satisfied with the results of their breast augmentation can be observed from the reviews they have provided. For instance, one patient gave a five star review for Dr. Wong and said, "Dr. Wong was very informative and took the time to explain the procedure and make me feel comfortable. I am very happy with my result. I already recommended him to my friends and family. Very very happy with the result."

Other services provided by Dr. Wong include facial rejuvenation, fat injections, tummy tuck, liposuction, and blepharoplasty. Those who are interested in breast augmentation and other cosmetic surgery procedures
