Columbus, Georgia based Personal Injury Lawyer Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. has reached out to their community to advise them not to make hasty decisions when they find themselves in legal trouble. Specifically, the firm notes that individuals in such stressful situations should not accept the first quick offer proposed by their insurance company. Instead, the firm recommended that they hire an experienced personal injury lawyer as an advocate to fight for and demand the best offer. The firm stated, ?We treat each injury on a personal level because they come in all manner of circumstances. Furthermore, the priorities of our client are always of paramount importance to us.?

The practice has offices spread across Georgia, providing their services to clients in the major cities as well as rural areas, and they assure clients that they can help anyone who has been hurt due to another?s negligence. The firm advises their clients to never accept the insurance company?s offer at face value. Instead, the injured party should consult with a Columbus personal injury attorney as soon as possible. According to the veteran law firm, their team of attorneys is not intimidated by insurance companies, nor will they back down from a powerful opponent.

Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. will ensure that their client?s legal rights have not been violated and work to get the best result. Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. has one of the best success rates in Columbus, where they have helped hundreds of clients by representing their best interests in court. By taking care of the legal side, they give their clients the freedom to focus on their recovery and treatment, which helps to reduce the overall stress of the unfortunate situation. The firm?s dedication is evident in the numerous reviews left by their clients online. For instance, Jeffery Frazier gave the firm a 5-star review on Google, saying, ?This law firm and its professional lawyers are the nicest, most dedicated people. They will help you get back on your feet and contact you at every turn of events to make sure you are all right and taken care of. Love them a lot!?

The firm?s Columbus office was recently featured on the KIKNTV news site. In the article, Tim Derrickson of Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. is quoted saying that, ?We make sure that the only concern on our client?s minds is what they will do with their compensation once the case is finished.? The office can be contacted 24 hours a day on a toll free number. Those who prefer can submit details, including photos of their accident, via a form on the firm?s website or speak to a customer service agent live online for assistance. They may also download directions to the firm?s Columbus GA Office via Google Maps.

Through their Columbus office, the firm handles their share of automobile accidents, bicycle accidents, slip-and-fall accidents, workplace accidents, defective products, medical malpractice, and dog bites. They also deal with nursing home abuse, construction accidents, and premises liability. The firm strongly believes that everyone is entitled to legal advice, and their Columbus injury accident attorneys help their clients through their times of great need.

Founded in 1985, Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. has built their reputation by making each and every client a priority. Their commitment to their clients and community sets them apart?they will even review a case for free for anyone who wants a consultation. Danielle S. had this to say regarding the handling of her recent case: ?Marjorie was awesome! Since this was my first car accident, she was able to calm down my frustration and get the ball rolling with my case. We spoke frequently, and any questions that I had were answered promptly. She was also very frank about the process and didn?t sugar-coat anything, which I can appreciate. Working with the firm has made the overall process very easy when dealing with a car accident. I would recommend Ken Nugent?s office to anyone in the future.?

Often, the trauma of being in an accident means that some of the essential steps may be missed out, and important evidence may be lost. Contacting an attorney as soon as possible after an accident can help ensure that the injured party does not make any statements which later compromise their case.
