GreatPaperStraws.com, based in Manhattan, Kansas, is pleased to announce that they offer the world?s only water resistant drinking paper straws. They manufacture the Astraws® brand paper straws that are water-resistant and last longer than other paper straws. Also, these straws are food safe based on FDA and EU regulations. They are recyclable, biodegradable, compostable, and are made in the US.

It should be noted that many people are reluctant about replacing plastic straws with paper straws. This is because paper straws usually fall apart easily after just a few sips. The taste of paper may also transfer to the drink, thus ruining a person?s enjoyment of his or her drink. In fact, people may find that some of the paper may have mixed with their drink inside the cup or bottle.

Enrique Garibay, owner of GreatPaperStraws.com, says, ?We use a patent-pending, one-of-a-kind, food safe kraft paper called EnviroPaper®. It uses a bio coating that makes the paper straw water resistant. Water resistant paper straws last longer, so you and your guests will use fewer of them while enjoying your drinks.?

He continues, ?Party clean-up is a breeze when you use Astraws® brand paper straws. Since they are biodegradable, no need to sort your party waste. Simply throw them in the trash. They'll naturally disintegrate in about 30 days time.?

People who use Astraws® brand drinking straws are helping save Mother Earth because they are eco-friendly, biodegradable straws. But unlike polylactic acid (PLA) thermoplastic straws that require high temperature and pressure found in a commercial composting facility, Astraws® brand straws disintegrate naturally in the soil. Thus, they won't fill up a landfill, unlike the PLA straws.

And unlike other paper straws that fall apart while being used to sip a drink, Astraws® are water-resistant and therefore last longer. Also, they are odor-free and taste-free. Thus, they are convenient to use for cold drinks, such as water, juices, milk, sodas, and even alcoholic beverage. However, straws are not recommended for use with hot beverages because there is a risk for minor or even major burn injuries.

It is also possible to purchase these paper straws on Amazon. They are considered to be the world's first ever water-resistant but completely biodegradable paper straws. There is no worry about these paper straws getting soggy while people are sipping their drink. The beauty of these white paper straws will suit all kinds of parties and events. They can even be used for cake pops and other desserts. And, of course, they are appropriate for everyday use.

Meanwhile, customers who have bought the Astraws® brand paper straws have given the product a five star rating. For example, Mauricio P. said, "Yeah, the dolphins. I have personal issues with straws made out of paper, they feel icky, but it is all for the dolphins. Now, having said that, this brand is the best I have found so far, in terms of resistance. They can last way longer inside your drink before you can feel they lose stiffness.?"

Sheri S., who also gave the product a five star rating, said, "Ditch the plastic straws and try these paper straws. They perform well and are a great way to keep plastic out of our landfills and oceans!?"

The paper straws can also be purchased in bulk by the box or pallets, in various forms. They are available as wrapped straws, unwrapped paper straws, or unwrapped straws in cartons. Wholesale or retail purchases are also possible.

Those who are really concerned about the threat posed single-use plastic straws on the environment can depend on the Astraws® biodegradable paper straws. Enrique Garibay explains that he comes from a family of entrepreneurs. They are currently registered as a Minority Business Enterprise with the State of Kansas and with the Mountain Plains Minority Supplier Development Council.
