Alpha Therapeutics LLC, a business based in Paradise Valley, Arizona, has announced that they are offering CBD healing balms. This a topical balm that is applied at site or nerve distribution to provide relief for acute pain, whiplash, compression fracture pain, fibromyalgia, post-herpetic neuralgia, and diabetic or other peripheral neuropathy.

Geoff Dada, CEO of Alpha Therapeutics LLC, says, "We're excited to offer another cannabidiol (CBD) product, which is a topical product for relieving pain. We are a pharmaceutical CBD manufacturer and distributor dedicated to producing innovative CBD products and educating physicians and other healthcare providers about potential benefits CBD may give their patients."

The CBD topical balm is just one of the many products that make use of CBD. For instance, there is also the CBD System 500 tincture, which is applied sublingually for immediate absorption and then swallowed to provide help with pain and anxiety related conditions, such as panic attacks, PTSD, mood liability / anger related burnout, and anxiety-associated insomnia.

There is also the CBD organic massage oil for whole body massage oil. It is made with high oleic sunflower oil, jojoba oil, hemp seed oil, cannabinoids, and terpenes. Also available is the live hemp CBD oil with syringe style applicator. This contains high quality cannabinoids, essential vitamins, chlorophyll, minerals, and fatty acids.

CBD oil for pets are also available from Alpha Therapeutics. One such product is the Pet 500 mg CBD, which can be used for dogs to help with seizures. This is a lab tested CBD tincture that has been triplicate tested to ensure high quality results.

Geoff Dada says, "Are you looking for a private label CBD manufacturer? Do you need custom CBD oil manufacturing for your own CBD product line? Our organic, fair trade plants are triplicate tested to ensure exceptional CBD quality. We can meet all your white label & wholesale CBD oil manufacturing needs!?"

Alpha Therapeutics will collaborate with clients to make sure that a new formula is developed that will comply with a particular product development. The development cycle need not require months or even years to from concept to the creation of a prototype. This is because they have expertise and knowledge for developing difficult formulations. They can provide assistance in identifying the proper mix of ingredients for a particular product.

They want to point out that a special challenge is presented by cannabidiol because of the confusion in the minds of many people about what it does and whether it is legal in some areas of the US. For instance, it was only recently that the FDA had approved the prescription of the use of a purified form of CBD oil for the treatment of two kinds of epilepsy.

Several compounds labeled as cannabinoids can be derived from the cannabis plant and the therapeutic applications of CBD are also being researched. The oils may contain varying amounts of CBD. Until recently, the most popular and active compound in cannabis was tetrahydrocannabinol or THC. It is THC that causes a "high" when marijuana is smoked or ingested. THC and CBD have different effects on the user. CBD is not psychoactive and will not alter the user's state of mind.

Meanwhile, both marijuana and hemp come from the Cannabis sativa. The least processed form of the cannabis plant is hemp, which is where medically used CBD usually comes from. The problem is that marijuana farmers usually selectively breed the plants to boost the level of THC. It should be noted that the hemp plants that are used for extracting CBD oil are rarely altered.

Research has shown that CBD may be effective for the treatment of many complications of epilepsy, such as neuronal injury, neurodegeneration, and psychiatric disorders. Scientific studies are also ongoing on the effect of CBD on anxiety disorders, cancer, type 1 diabetes, acne, and Alzheimer's disease.
