October 02, 2019 -
Braden Insurance Agency Inc., one of the leading independent Medicare insurance agents in Louisville, Kentucky, has published a comprehensive Medicare Guide that is freely available on their website. With the annual Medicare Enrollment Period opening next month, the firm hopes their guide will help reduce the stress and confusion that many Americans go through this period each year. Unlike certain other firms, Braden Insurance offers 100% free, unbiased, no-pressure consultations so that each of their clients gets the right Medicare coverage for them.

Most people find signing up for Medicare a confusing and frustrating process. As an independent agency, Braden Insurance is not locked into selling policies from just one company?a situation that can lock patients into more high-priced coverage. Their team can help individuals and families find the best coverage and the best price to meet their needs. Unlike firms that use high pressure sales tactics, their consultations are 100% free, with no strings attached, whether customers are ready to sign up or just want to ask questions about their services.

Insurance Agencies like Braden Insurance are attractive to a large number of people because they want personalized service and advice from a highly-trained professional who has their best interests in mind. Relying on an expert who stays up to date with the myriad ongoing changes to healthcare and the competing offers, and combinations which work best, just makes sense. Most of all, people value having true freedom of choice and access to a variety of insurance products offered by many insurance carriers to get the best deal for their personal requirements.

The firm has been serving local residents since 1961, and they have been a member of the Better Business Bureau (BBB) for many years, where they hold an A+ rating. Walter Braden, Owner of Braden Insurance Agency Inc., stated, ?We will help you find the best Medicare Plan, Advantage Plan, or Supplement Plan that fits your health needs and budget.? Over the years, there have been numerous changes in the approved list of providers and Medicare supplement plans. It makes sense for every individual to make sure that their current benefit plan is still the right one for them. Many factors can contribute to the need for a new plan, such as their health condition, new pressures on finances and income, and even retirement status.

The annual enrollment period this year begins on October 15 and finishes on December 7 for 2020 coverage. All Americans must use the same window of time to select a new plan or stick with their current plan. Having a licensed, professional, and independent agent available to help work through the options is preferable to the stress of trying to ?do-it-yourself.? More recently, Medicare Supplement plans and Medigap Insurance plans have made it difficult for many to figure out the right combination.

Braden recommends that Medicare participants and new enrollees should not wait to choose a plan. Preparing well ahead of the enrollment period with an independent agent is far better than making this important choice alone. Some help can be found at the 12 Most Frequently Asked Questions that Braden Insurance Agency in Louisville, KY has compiled into one article, providing answers to questions they have received from their clients. It can be read on the Insurance Blog hosted on their website.

Many who are getting ready to turn 65 may have received information through the mail about some of the options available to them, and those who are already 65 or older need to know what to do as they leave coverage supplied through their employer. Getting advice from an independent agent will help ensure that nothing important is overlooked. Prospective enrollees should also be aware that, once the window closes, 2020 coverage is locked down. For those who do not know where to start, Braden advises reading their comprehensive guide and scheduling an appointment with one of their agents to answer any questions they have.

The firm works with the nation?s most trusted Medicare insurance providers, including Anthem, Humana, Cigna, United Healthcare, Aetna, and Mutual of Omaha.
