August 06, 2014 -

Brooklyn, NY ? Internet business entrepreneur and consultant, David Lelong, has announced the success of iPas2, a marketing system for online businesses, encouraging others to try the system. The system has increased in popularity, due to the success and satisfaction of participants who reported they were able to use the system to create multiple streams of income through high ticket affiliate sales. The iPas2 system provides users with all of the training, tools, and support to create and operate a successful online business. <http://davidlelong.com/high-ticket-affiliate-programs/>>High ticket affiliate programs cost more, and therefore produce greater earnings, with most products offering commissions beginning at $1000.00. Low ticket programs produce smaller returns and require a larger number of customers to achieve the income provided by a small number of high ticket affiliate customers. High ticket affiliate programs are easily promoted, and enable marketing professionals to significantly increase their income while reducing the number of clients they work with.

Beginning in and working with high ticket affiliate programs requires support and training to ensure success. The iPas2 system supports marketing professionals, whether they are just beginning or are experienced, and provides them with support and personal coaching to ensure the success of their online business. Users are responsible to drive traffic to the site, leaving the sale of high ticket affiliate items to a team of sales professionals.

There are a number of tools included in the iPas2 system that ensure success for any user. System users are provided with a dashboard, which allows them to track site traffic. Additionally, the system includes methods of attracting potential customers, including low offers to attract attention, up-selling, and an optional opportunity to increase profits. Users of iPas2 are supported by a team of trainers and coaches. The popularity and success associated with the iPas2 system has resulted in it being referred to as ?a business in a box.?

David Lelong speaks to the benefits of the iPas2 system and discusses the features that make it a successful way to become involved in high ticket affiliate programs at <http://davidlelong.com>. Mr. Lelong?s extensive experience in the marketing industry is apparent in his assessment of the system.
