NJ Center for CoolSculpting, based in Summit, New Jersey, has announced that they are offering CoolSculpting for the thigh area. This is a revolutionary cooling procedure that can get positive results in getting rid of fat from the thighs. In this procedure, a physician puts a gel pad and applicator on the target area on the thighs. The controlled cold goes through the applicator, where it is able to target and kill fat cells.

Hardik Soni from NJ Center for CoolSculpting says, ?Do you want to get rid of fat on your thighs but have experienced little to no success with exercise? If so, CoolSculpting is a perfect way to achieve your goal of having leaner and more sculpted upper legs. Although many people rely on this noninvasive and FDA-approved procedure for eliminating bulges of fat on the stomach, it works just as well on the thighs, along with other areas of the body. To look and feel your best, even recapturing your sexiness, you should give CoolSculpting serious consideration. Plus, we are offering $1000 off for the first treatment.?

The fat cells on the thighs that are exposed to the controlled cold die through apoptosis or programmed cell death. Some of the fat cells die immediately but others will continue to die over weeks and months. That is important because it prevents the body from becoming overwhelmed by a huge number of dead and dying cells. During that time, the fat cells are processed by the body, gradually flushing them out. Any fat cells that remain get excreted through the liver and, eventually, through stools.

For the inner thighs, CoolSculpting has been found to be highly advantageous for getting rid of fat cells on the inner thigh. And for the outer thighs, the procedure has also been found to work incredibly well. Hardik Soni points out that although men and women can have too much fat on the upper legs, it is a particular challenge for women. This is because women tend to store extra fat in the hips and thighs during pregnancy, which then serves as reserve energy for the production of breast milk. However, later on, shifting the fat from the thighs is very difficult.

This is where CoolSculpting comes in. It is a nonsurgical and FDA-approved treatment for getting rid of the fat from the thighs, providing proven results without requiring surgery, needles, anesthesia, or downtime. More information can be found on the center?s Facebook page at https://www.facebook.com/NJCenterForCoolSculpting/.

Meanwhile, the thigh lift is a surgical procedure in which excess skin is eliminated. Usually combined with this surgery is liposuction to suck out the excess fat from the inner and outer thigh. However, there is now another option, which is nonsurgical and safer. This makes use of an energy-based device known as Ultherapy, which is approved by the FDA and works by lifting the skin. With just one treatment, the difference is very noticeable and will even continue over time.

It should be noted that because cellulite is a skin issue, CoolSculpting would be not effective in getting rid of cellulite. However, by getting rid of a firm bulge of fat found underneath the skin, many patients have been able to get tighter, smoother, and more sculpted thighs.

Meanwhile, for those who are concerned about possible side effects, these are minimal. Patients will usually experience some minimal cramping, tingling, stinging, tugging, aching, and sensitivity to touch. However, these sensations will not last long.

CoolSculpting is mostly used for targeting fat on the stomach. However, as discussed, it can also be used for getting rid of fat in other areas, such as the thighs. In addition, it can also be used to eliminate fat in the arms, breasts, buttocks, and the chin area.
