July 31, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

TCT Real Estate, a residential real estate company with offices in Seattle and Phoenix, has opened a new office in Carlsbad, California. They have done this to be able to better serve their home sellers and buyers in the Carlsbad, Oceanside and San Marcos areas. They will also continue to offer their advanced online property search and this includes homes for sale in Carlsbad.

Doug Young from TCT Real Estate said, "We've spent years perfecting TCTRealEstate.com to give our visitors the best local real estate search tools and information available, making it easier than ever to find a new home. However, we also care about the physical side of our business. Homes, after all, are physical and not digital. This is why, to better serve our numerous clients, we have now opened an office in Carlsbad, which will support our existing headquarters in the Phoenix area as well."

TCT Real Estate also understands that the real estate market has changed. They want to be able to combine marketing, service and technology in one package. This is why they also help people set up a solid real estate plan, which goes above and beyond an MLS listing, paper flyers and signs. They offer appropriate intelligence when it comes to the housing market. Their plan is designed to be affordable and quick, with listing commissions as low as 1.5%.

The new Carlsbad office will be staffed by highly trained real estate professionals who understand both buyers' and sellers' needs. They are also supporting the online chat facilities through the TCT website. "We want to make sure that selling your home in Carlsbad is a quick and easy process," adds Doug Young. "You can come visit us in our new offices, can contact us online, or both."

TCT Real Estate will continue to offer a range of different services online as well. These include finding out how much a property is worth and how many distressed properties may exist in a certain area. Supported by both their physical and online staff, this will ensure their ability to service the Carlsbad, and surrounding area, even better than ever before.
