Essays have become the preferred tools used in the formal education system, to evaluate students' comprehension, and determine their mastery of subject material. They can also be utilized to improve a student's writing ability, while measuring their aptitude on any particular subject. Essays which are written in the classroom setting must be completed by the student. Of course, if the essay is a more formal type of paper on a topic, students can choose to employ an essay writing service to help accomplish the task at hand.

A myriad of essay writing choices are available to the public via the internet. A simple search for these services yields what seems like endless choices. The question at hand is the morality of choosing to accomplish an assignment in this manner. In addition to the moral dilemma faced by individuals seeking essay writing services from others, it can be difficult to know what services are reputable, and if they will receive an acceptable grade for the essay. Therefore, they must choose to risk wasting their potential investment, as well as not performing as well from a grading standpoint. Of course, if one can be assured of the service's reliability, these disadvantages can be negated; one can certainly gain the benefit of freeing up their time for other things, and not having to do the work of developing their paper.

From a moral point of view, using an essay writing service and claiming the work as one's own in any setting could be deemed unacceptable by others. Additionally, one is choosing to deliberately defeat the purpose of expanding their horizons, and increasing their writing ability, through opting to pay their way out of doing the work and research. Acknowledging that it is plagiarism to claim someone's work as one's own in both an academic and professional setting, one must also be comfortable with missing the opportunity of growing their own capabilities.

When considering the advantages and pitfalls of choosing to employ an essay writing service powered by writeversity, one is left with difficult choices. If students and professionals invest the time and make every effort to do their own work, no matter what the assignment is, they could be making the morally sound decision and saving the financial expense as well. Imagine paying a service to write an essay, and having it receive an unacceptable grade, or even worse, a failing one. Or how about having to defend against charges of plagiarism? Of course, this must be weighed against the advantages of simply paying a service to write the essay, and being free to spend one's time doing other tasks. One must choose between the pros and cons to justify their choice of employing an essay writing service, while being comfortable with their decision.
