Florida based The Net Lender Miami is pushing forward with their mandate to bring their financial services to the aid of Miami residents. Given the state of the local economy, the company is placing the benefit of both their advice and experience as financial aid providers and their more direct services at the disposal of all who need them. According to The Net Lender Miami, also known as TNL Miami, the cost of living in the city depends on a variety of factors. These factors include, as one would expect, expenses associated with rent, food (the costs for which are higher than the national average), and transport (which is most often represented as a daily commute to and from a place of employment). TNL Miami adds, "You should also take into account any dependents you have, like children or elderly relatives, which part of the city you live in, and even what sort of lifestyle you generally aim to maintain. However, the issue that most people fail to recognise is that they will often have to step outside their budgets for a variety of other, unexpected expenses."

The issue is compounded, says TNL Miami, if the person in question is a student or is unemployed. They note, "Additionally, while the "unaccounted" expenses have the very real danger of adding up to a significant amount over the course of a month, we notice that some expenses tend to affect certain households much harder than others. For instance, should you suffer an injury and require a trip to the nearest hospital, the resulting medical bills can be incredibly difficult to deal with, even if you have insurance. At TNL Miami and our other locations around the country, we understand that you may therefore be pushed to your financial limits through no fault of your own"so we are here to offer our help in your time of need." While the company can be contacted by phone or take in applications online, interested parties may find TNL Miami's premises at the following location: <https://goo.gl/maps/SmEAKJ4Qc5wHQaBR6>.

The financial expert is able to achieve this through the use of car titles. Any client who has their own car and retains the title to it can use the vehicle as collateral to request a quick, hassle free cash advance from the company. While there are other factors that TNL Miami considers before granting an advance, they assert that customers enjoy certain key advantages when seeking aid from them.

Perhaps foremost among these advantages is the fact that TNL Miami does not take the applicant's credit history into account when processing their application. They state, "We're aware that people with poor credit histories are often the same people who most need help. As this would likely fuel a self-perpetuating cycle of financial trouble while the indebted party tries to balance all their obligations, we prefer to give our customers a means to break the cycle of dependence. This also means that you are more likely to get help from us than from other sources, such as banks." The company further clarifies that applicants do not necessarily have to be employed to receive a cash advance, but they do need to have a monthly income of at least $1,200.

"You must also be at least 18 years of age and have full ownership of your vehicle, including a clean and lien-free title," adds the company. "You can look up a full list of our requirements on our website or call our customer hotline to check if you qualify. Furthermore, given that we don't want to push you further into debt, we'll work with you to figure out what a suitable repayment term is. This will hopefully allow you to make your repayments at a rate that won't cause you any further financial hassle."
