February 12, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Residents in Los Angeles can now receive customized service plans for the pest needs of their property. Best Quality Termite and Pest Control announced they are working with both businesses and homes throughout the Los Angeles County area.

"We feel that it's important for customers to have a reliable local exterminator and in order to achieve the best results, we customize our treatment plans," the business manager said. The company states that they perform an inspection to determine what kind of bug or rodent problems may be present on the property.

From there the pest control technician can draft the best plan of action to start treating any issues that were found. "Our inspection helps us identify active problems, but it also helps us discover any potential problems that need to be addressed as well," the manager said.

Many property owners may battle pests in their property on their own, but often times are not successful in completely eliminating the problem. The manager added, "Prevention is a very important part of managing a property for pests and rodents. If you are not inspecting your property regularly, any number of pest issues could go unnoticed. If they remain unseen for any length of time and you could end up with serious structural damage."

Best Quality Termite and Pest Control recommends having an inspection done on a property at least twice a year. For properties that have frequent rodent or bug problems, an inspection should be done more often.

"There are many factors that play into what kind of service plan is right for an individual property. We will take the time to be thorough in inspecting your property to make sure your family or business is safe," the manager stated.
