August 26, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

In a recent report, Termite Control Manhattan Beach said that the company will be providing pest control to the Los Angeles county area. A member of the board of directors said, "Pest infestations are getting worse every year. They are constantly spreading and getting harder to treat. We started this company so that we can help fend off our neighbor's, our family's, our friend's, and our homes from the disease-rich pests."

Los Angeles County has had a huge increase in pest infestations in recent years. The pests are getting worse and harder to treat. Over the counter products are becoming obsolete and more expensive. More and more residents are hiring professional exterminators for residential and commercial properties to take care of their pest infestations.

In an interview on Thursday, the president of Termite Control Manhattan Beach said, "DIY methods and over the counter products are getting less effective every year. Pests are becoming harder to treat because they are adapting to their surroundings better and becoming more resilient towards pest treatments. That is why we are starting this company. We want to provide affordable, quick, and effective pest control to everyone." The president continued to talk about the current goals of the company.

"Termite Control Manhattan Beach is here to provide the best pest control services in the area. Our goal is to find the most effective and efficient ways of treating every kind of pest. To fulfill this goal, all of our goals are custom built. This means that we have no generalized service. Each treatment is custom built towards the type of pest that is causing the infestation. If you have a cockroach we are going to use our cockroach plan that uses cockroach removal equipment and cockroach prevention solutions."

The company will start providing pest control services to Los Angeles County starting as soon as next week. Their team of 20 exterminators has gone through rigorous training to prepare for anything out on the field. The company's president said, "Our experts are very excited to start helping residents with their pest infestations."

Then the CEO went on to say more about the current rise in infestations, "Bed bugs and cockroaches have become the biggest problems in the area. Bed bugs spread easily and multiply quickly. They can come into your home on used furniture or clothing. They make their way into your house and then spread everywhere, hiding during the day and coming out to feast at night. When you are asleep you won't feel them but you will wake up with bites all over your arms and legs. Cockroaches are also on the rise. They are very adaptable to their surroundings and can survive a lot. It is hard to take care of them with your typical over-the-counter treatments. Even if you do take care of the current infestation, they usually come back in no time."

The company is preparing to start delivering these expert services on Monday. Their services span across all of Los Angeles County. The company says property owners can contact them by visiting their website at <https://termitecontrolmanhattanbeach.com> or by phone. They are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.
