February 25, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

A local pest control company, Superior Termite Control, is offering rodent services to homes and businesses throughout Los Angeles County, California. Rats and mice have been a common problem for many property owners in the area for a long time. Professional services are often the only way to ensure rodents never become an issue for home and business owners.

"While we specialize in termite control for Los Angeles residents, we help with other pests as well, including rats and mice. They are able to squeeze through small spaces and gnaw on things to keep their teeth sharp, which results in property damage for you," the business manager stated.

One of the most common signs of mice or rats in a property is their feces. They leave feces anywhere and everywhere and this is a health hazard to people sharing an environment with them. "If you suspect or know for sure there are rodents in your property you want to take immediate action," the manager said. "They will breed quickly and hide in places you can't easily access. There are many DIY means of getting rid of rats and mice but you should be prepared to spend more time and money," the manager added.

The business owner stated that they help their customers keep the rats and mice out by helping them identify the entry points. If these points are sealed up and corrected, so that rodents can't get in, their presence will drastically decrease and dealing with the existing rodents will be much easier.

Just targeting the mice you see will still get rid of some of the mice on your property, but what about those you don't see? In addition, most people don't want to deal with the dead critters and that's why they prefer a local rodent exterminator handles their problem," the manager stated.

In addition to be destructive to properties, rats and mice are health hazards as they can carry and transmit diseases to people as well. The fact that they contaminate every surface they touch should be enough to make a person call an exterminator immediately at the first signs of a problem.
