February 25, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Fort Lauderdale Pest Control offers quality pest control services to Broward County residents and property owners. Protecting one's investment, such as a home or business, is very important and this includes protection from annoying pests and rodents. The business is now offering property owners superior bed bug extermination services.

"If you don't do your part as a property owner to keep it protected from pests, you can't expect to never have bugs or rodents invading your space. When it comes to bed bugs, however, you want to be on top of the issue immediately," the company manager said.

Bed bugs have been showing up more and more in Fort Lauderdale, FL and many other places across the state and the world. Unfortunately, the treatments previously used to eradicate these particular pests are no longer effective.

"We're starting to see companies add products to the shelves that help with treating bed bugs, but these pests are unlike any other. You can't spray them and then wait for them to die and go away. These bugs are the size of an apple seed and easy to miss. Just one missed bed bug and your problem could escalate quickly," the business manager stated.

According to the owner at Fort Lauderdale Pest Control treating for bed bugs is a very tedious job. It often requires multiple treatments and also other techniques that typically involve the property owner. These bugs can invade any space, clean or dirty, by hitching a ride on a person or their belongings.

"We have received multiple calls of residents who noticed bed bugs shortly after bringing used furniture in their home or property. This is a common issue and one that can easily be avoided. Inspecting items before you bring them inside is recommended and you could even call on a professional bed bug exterminator to visit and treat the furniture before you take it inside," the business owner said.

For Fort Lauderdale residents, bed bugs are becoming quite the challenge but Fort Lauderdale Pest Control can help property owners obtain a bed bug-free property once again.
