October 11, 2019 -

RLP Maximum, a real estate brokerage in Woodbridge, Ontario, Canada, has announced that prices of homes for sale in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA) are on the rise as demand overtakes supply. An analysis of home sales in the GTA for the month of August 2019 revealed that there was a 13.4 percent increase in sales compared to the same month in 2018. As a result, the GTA MLS Home Price Index Composite Benchmark for August 2019 increased by 4.9 percent on a year-over-year basis. John DiMichele, CEO of the Toronto Real Estate Board, pointed out that the strong demand for homes is due to the area?s strong economy, cultural diversity, and the world-renowned quality of life that attracts more people to the region each year.

The RLP Maximum website allows people who are interested in properties for sale in Ontario to look for their ideal home. Properties are available from various parts of Ontario, including Toronto, Vaughan, Mississauga, Brampton, Richmond Hill, King, Caledon, and Oakville. The properties for sale include homes, condominiums, townhouses, semi-detached homes, detached houses, luxury estates, vacant land, and commercial properties.

The real estate listings provided by RLP Maximum include properties for sale and for rent. The website also provides local information and helpful information for both buyers and sellers. It also provides real estate calculators to help people estimate how much they can afford, estimate land transfer tax and other real estate factors. Also included is a calculator that allows people to determine whether it is better to rent or buy.

People who are interested in discovering their ideal home in GTA or other parts of Ontario can use the search bar, where they only need to indicate the property type, whether they are looking for a property for sale or lease, the number of bedrooms, and the number of bathrooms. They may also indicate the price range to ensure that the search results will provide homes that are within their budget.

For buyers, the RLP Maximum website also offers a number of helpful content. These include how to make an offer, the closing costs, land transfer tax, what is title insurance, renting versus home ownership, the elements of an offer, how to get greater savings with a bigger down payment, and what to expect from a real estate professional.

For sellers, the website also provides some helpful information. These include the things to do when selling a home, pricing their property, how to get big returns from little improvements, and how to hold a successful open house.

The RLP Maximum website also offers other helpful content. These include articles on how to move with plants and pets, the art of packing, 5 tips to achieve higher sale prices, buying one?s first home, a home buyer?s plan, home ownership incentives, whether it is advisable to buy a new or older home, preparing for a home inspection, and where to start when selling one?s home.

Royal LePage Maximum Realty Brokerage, or RLP Maximum, has been in the real estate business for more than 100 years. The company was founded by A.E. LePage in 1913 with the goal of building his community in Toronto and helping people achieve their goal of finding their dream home in their ideal community. A.E. LePage was also a founding member of the Toronto Real Estate Board and he really understood the important of professionalism in this particular field so that people would be able to trust total strangers to help them in finding their dream home.

As a result, RLP Maximum was able to pioneer several firsts in the industry and the company?s current real estate experts are continuing this tradition. They were some of the first realtors to create a website, offer virtual tours, and leverage the power of the Internet to help clients buy or sell homes throughout Canada.
