October 08, 2019

Colorado Springs, Colorado - October 08, 2019 -
Home Buyers & Renovators (HBR) Colorado is pleased to share some of their most recent customer reviews, showcased through their website and several other review platforms. HBR Colorado specializes in real estate investments and enjoys a distinguished reputation in the area for the services they provide. They are known for their transparency and dedication to serving the community.

The local company has recently received an increasing amount of support from the community, who have not hesitated to show their appreciation for the services provided.This outpouring of support represents a great reward for the company, as they state that they are immensely proud that their commitment to their clients has not gone unnoticed. Furthermore, they state that they are grateful for the opportunity to learn how their work has positively impacted their customer?s lives.

Brian Rudderow, Owner and CEO of HBR Colorado, explains, "We have been truly overwhelmed by the support that the community has shown us, and we could not be happier about it. They have always been our foremost priority, and to see them reciprocate in this way is all we could ask for. We want them to know that we have received their kind words and will strive to maintain the parts of our services that they loved while doing all we can to improve every other aspect of our company to match their expectations. Above all else, we thank them for standing beside us and trusting us as their real estate investors."

HBR Colorado hosts a few of their most recent success stories on their website. For instance, a testimonial from an Arvada family says that, "We asked Brian to flip and sell our house in Arvada, CO one year ago. He and his wife were very professional and quick in the work they did on the house. I would recommend them to anyone who wants to sell without having to sink a lot of money into it. I would give them an A+."

Another featured testimonial, written by Andrew M., states, "Selling a townhome with a demanding House Owners Association (HOA) is hard enough, especially when you accrue a home damage assessment of $10,000 added on to your HOA bill. Basically, no realtor would agree to post a property for sale in this situation, which is why I went with Brian and his company. We probably set a world?s record in the time expected to close and officially sell any property, but with Brian?s continued diligence and assurance (to me), the home was finally closed after almost five months. I would highly recommend his services to anyone who is in dire need to sell their home."

These reviews highlight some of the most challenging aspects of selling homes in Colorado, aspects that HBR seeks to smooth out in favor of their clients. The company asserts that they are extremely familiar with these challenges and, perhaps more importantly, know the best ways to overcome them. From the tedious amount of paperwork that needs to be filled out, having to schedule the required inspections, and overseeing everything, HBR Colorado will handle the whole process and allow their clients to rest assured knowing that they have an expert handling these matters. Additionally, they note that purchase offers are produced without any obligation whatsoever incurred for their clients, an advantage that contributes greatly to the company?s reputation for transparency and trustworthiness.

"We have a clear premise and offer a service that caters to very specific needs," notes Rudderow. "Even if you have all the time necessary to invest in going through this paperwork by yourself?and every other obstacle that crops up between you and a successful house sale?there is no guarantee that you will quickly find someone interested in buying your house. We offer a quick and reliable way to sell your property in Colorado, through a hassle-free process that is catered towards fulfilling your needs. We also modify our approach according to each client?s requirements to suit their convenience."
