Surprise, AZ based Richard Steiman CPA, LLC is pleased to invite members of the public to avail themselves of the company?s comprehensive suite of accounting services. Led by an accomplished accounting team, Richard and Sherry Steiman, the company has a wealth of experience working with all kinds of clients, including businesses, individuals, and attorneys.

As they explain in one of their recent blog posts, an individual can find many uses in a capable Certified Public Accountant (CPA). Titled 4 Reasons To Use An Experienced CPA In Sun City, the post says, ?Filing your taxes can be difficult, especially if you are a business owner. You may be confused as to how to file taxes, what deductions to claim and other aspects to consider during tax time. Hiring an accountant is the best way to make sure you file your business taxes correctly, saving yourself time and hopefully money in the process. A CPA can easily assist in the tax filing process.?

It continues, ?Along with owning your own business, having a side job or even rental property can be a reason to hire a CPA. Having a professional for your tax or other accounting needs can only be of benefit to you.? Many people will be aware that a professional CPA, for instance, can make their lives much easier by filing taxes on their behalf accurately and on time, a task that they now will not have to take up on their own. However, clients are often unaware that CPAs like Richard Steiman are able to advise them of ways to save on taxes, by means of tax write-offs and similar financial options. In the post, the company further states that, ?Most business owners have no idea about certain deductions that can be written off based on the industry you are involved in. An experienced CPA knows just how to help you file correctly and get the most out of tax deductions.?

Furthermore, a CPA?s expert advice can go a long way in aiding individuals, particularly if they experience any trouble with the government regarding their taxes. The Internal Revenue Service, or IRS, is one example of a government agency that can make life inconvenient?at the very least?for the subject of their focus.

Steiman himself advises that a CPA be consulted as soon as possible in order to ensure that an inconvenience does not become a much more serious issue. He says, ?Making the wrong moves under government scrutiny can put both your finances and liberty at risk. The penalties you incur may include fines, jail time, or both. It is always wiser to have a certified CPA by your side to ensure your finances, and by extension your taxes, are always in order.?

The blog post adds, ?A CPA can also help you figure out how to spend your money. A portion of your income should be used for some type of savings, be it a 401K or perhaps your children's education. A CPA can help you to determine the best way in which to use any spare income for your individual savings needs. Work with an experienced CPA by discussing your savings goals. Plans can be created to meet retirement savings; education needs and more.?

Notably, the accounting firm?s clients often attest to the strength of their services and the myriad benefits they offer. In one of the tax preparation testimonials proudly showcased on their official website, client Matt Deloff says, ?I've used Dick and Sherry for the last couple years. If you want organization and sound tax advice, I highly recommend the two of them. Sherry uses Quickbooks and will train you how to use it on your own. Dick is a tax wizard. He'll get your taxes done, save you money where he can, and keep you in good standing with the IRS. Definitely recommend them both.?

Similarly, Dorothy Kay says, ?I referred a friend who had a little IRS issue to Dick and, within a week, he had her return filed and caught her up. She was so grateful!?
