October 15, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

As costs for a funeral climbs, the Best Health Insurance Company In Hilton Head, SC stressed the importance of planning to help mitigate the financial toll of family members and loved ones that are grieving.

Korthase Insurance, located at 6 Wildbird Lane, Hilton Head Island, South Carolina 29926, pointed out that aside from emotional burden, a burial can also incur financial toll. According to the National Funeral Directors Association, the median cost of a funeral, burial services, and a vault is $8,508, while the median cost for cremation is $6,078.

To prevent high funeral costs, Korthase Insurance provides final expense services. This plan can be used to fund the cost of a burial and other related expenses that are considered to be a person's final expenses, hence the name.

The final expense insurance policy of Korthase Insurance allows customers to select a beneficiary, which means they can choose an agent who's legally responsible for the allocation of benefits.

The plan holder is also allowed to borrow against the tax-deferred dividend value of the final expense policy. It means that in addition to preparing for their family's financial future, the client also has an open line of credit in case of an emergency.

"Give your family immediate access to funds dedicated to covering your final expenses. This way, they don't need to pay out of pocket," the company says on their website.

Aside from the final expense, Korthase Insurance also offers other top services with quality attention and the most appropriate, properly-priced insurance product.
