Organoid Research Group Launches Oncology News and Information Discovery Platform

October 15, 2019

October 15, 2019 -
Organoid Research Group announces today that it is officially launching its Oncology news and information discovery platform organoidresearch.com. The platform provides users in the scientific community an online resource for drug development and drug discovery, where they can browse the latest events, publications, and news in Oncology.

Originally founded in 2018 Organoid Research Group has been developing and growing their information platform steadily this past year culminating in the official launch.

?Our platform was designed to provide researchers with an online resource that collects and shares the latest news, publications, and events in Oncology. Our platform also doubles as place where users can share and exchange their knowledge and ideas related to tumor organoid research,? said a spokesperson for Organoid Research Group.

Those who would like to learn more about Organoid Research Group?s events and publications can find additional information on their website and interested parties may connect with ORG through their primary contact or via social media platforms to stay up to date with their latest news and announcements.

About Organoid Research Group:

The Organoid Research Group is an online resource for scientists with an interest in oncology drug discovery and drug development. The OrganoidResearch.com website provides the latest news, events, and publications, and serves as a platform to exchange knowledge and ideas in relation to tumor organoid research.

More information about the company platform and service can be found by visiting their website. People interested in collaborating or submitting research and content on organoids can contact Organoid Research Group via phone or email on Monday ? Friday from 8am ?5pm Eastern Standard Time.

###

For more information about Organoid Research Group, contact the company here:Organoid Research GroupSupport(617) 547-9443info@organoidresearch.com245 First StreetRiverview II, 18th FloorCambridge, MA 02142

Organoid Research Group

The Organoid Research Group is an online resource platform consisting of current news events and publications in drug development

Website: https://organoidresearch.com/

Email: info@organoidresearch.com

Phone: (617) 547-9443