Pro Pad Inc., a Mooresville, North Carolina manufacturer of motorcycle seat pads and accessories, has recently announced the addition of RV and commercial truck driver seat pads to their lineup. The seat pads are designed to help relieve back pain by absorbing shock and vibrations from the road. Breathable covers help to promote airflow and the medical gel used for manufacture is the same type used in wheelchairs, hospitals, and therapy centers.

Mike Enzwiler of Pro Pad Inc. recently released a statement about the new product line launch, "Everyone at the Pro Pad family is excited to be branching out in this area. Our motorcycle seat pads have always been such a popular item that we thought it was time to reach out to truck drivers and offer them the same comfort when driving."

The truck driver seat pads are currently available in fabric, leather, or sheepskin covers, all with an inner gel insert that is designed for maximum comfort when driving or riding. Fabric pads feature a quilted automotive style cover in black. Leather and sheepskin pads are also available in black and are made from real leather and sheepskin respectively.

All products from Pro Pad Inc. feature a 30 day money back guarantee, and the polymer inserts in the covered truck pads feature a three year warranty from the original date of purchase against cracks, leaks, and any hardening or breakdown. The complete lineup of new truck gel seat pads can be viewed at <http://www.thepropad.com/rv-truck-gel-seat-pads/>.

Pro Pad, Inc. is a family-owned manufacturer that was founded in 1999. The company provides motorcycle seat pads, flags, and other accessories to customers around the globe from their North Carolina based headquarters.

"I use Pro Pad seat pads for both of my motorcycles," says a long time customer. "I wouldn't dream of heading out on the road without one. Riding is a lot rougher than many people think, and the shocks and bumps from the road can really wreak havoc on your back and legs. I haven't had any trouble at all since I started using a Pro Pad seat pad."
