San Antonio Roofer Offers Free Inspections To Local Residents

October 24, 2019

Austin, Texas - October 24, 2019 -
The contractors of CCR Roofing of San Antonio, based in Texas, have announced that they now offer free inspections within the San Antonio area. This gives residents the ability to request an estimate for the cost of their roofing needs as well as the time the project will take to complete at no charge. The local company has served the San Antonio community for over a decade, maintaining their principles of delivering an outstanding service that values each client's satisfaction and treatment above all else.

While repairing a roof may seem like a straightforward process, the company cautions that this is not always the case. A variety of factors can influence the integrity of a roof, and only a thorough inspection can reveal the extent of the problems it faces. While a roof may seem deceptively intact at a glance and only seem to require a small investment of effort to correct, property owners should always have a reliable professional inspect the roof to ensure this is the case. With the thorough inspections that CCR Roofing of San Antonio now offers for free, customers may not have their roofs inspected properly without making an upfront investment. This gives them the added bonus of being able to catch issues in their early stages, preventing a more costly series of repairs in the future.

"While it does not make much of a difference to us, having an accurate budget that accounts for other factors pertinent to their repairs is very important for our clients," states CCR Roofing of San Antonio. "With these free inspections, we hope to give our clients a better understanding of what they are getting into before they commit to these repairs. While it may not matter in simpler cases like shingle replacements, more complicated and demanding projects can cause our clients to go over budget. There are very few options to postpone the repairs once we have begun some of the most complicated projects, and they will most likely have to go through with the whole thing in a single stage rather than commit slowly increments. Needless to say, this may place an undue amount of stress on their financial health."

The local contractors note that they will be relying on one of their highly-qualified experts to complete these inspections as the vital nature of their work is not reduced simply because the inspection is free. Once their San Antonio Roofing Contractor has been dispatched and arrives at the location, they will proceed to determine the extent of the roof?s damage. They will assess the state of the roof as a whole, determining if other repairs will be needed to ensure a satisfactory result. The whole process should not take longer than a couple of hours, after which they will present the results of their inspection to the client. An estimate for all of the repairs needed will also be provided at this time.

If the client decides to proceed with the suggested repairs with CCR Roofing of San Antonio, the company states that they will dispatch a complete team of roofing contractors at the earliest time possible. This team will be comprised of licensed and insured professionals who can carry out the repairs in a prompt manner that will often leave the job complete within a single day. Customers should note, however, that the time of completion often depends on the size and complexity of the repairs in question

CCR Roofing of San Antonio boasts a broad selection of services, providing the community with experts capable of fulfilling any roof repair or replacement that they may need. Their services for residential and commercial properties include Active Leak Repair, Complete Re-roof Installations, Shingle Roofing Systems, New Construction Roof Installation, Roof Maintenance, Insurance Claim Consultations, Roof Consultations for Real Estate Transactions, and so on.
