Bronte NSW based Ambient Electrical recently issued an advisory for all Australian property regarding the use of ceiling fans and the importance of getting professional installation. Peter Stafford, Owner of Ambient Electrical, stated, "More people want to do their bit to be more ecologically friendly while keeping their cool. Ceiling fans are a great way to keep air circulating, and helping reduce overall costs in the summer, as well as helping reduce heating costs in the winter. Proper installation is the best way to ensure a lifetime of enjoyment."

Ceiling fans have been a popular choice for property owners who appreciate keeping their cool throughout the hot summer months. However, they sometimes wind up with problems they did not expect, with units humming or shaking, or the light fixture not working as expected. The company advises customers to use a professional to install their ceiling fan to ensure that there is enough power in the circuit, and that all points along the way are working properly. Improperly installed ceiling fans can be prone to glitches, especially if they are constantly in use.

"There is no doubt that Australian summers are getting hotter. Last year was the hottest summer on record, with new records set around the eastern suburbs of Sydney and many other places across Australia. All expectations point to another blistering long, hot summer, so now is the time to make sure your home or commercial property is up to standard and to prepare to make the most of the fine weather without breaking the bank over energy costs," continued Stafford.

The firm is considered to be one the best ceiling fan electricians in Sydney, especially since they provide a guarantee on their work. Unlike certain other companies, they have no hidden costs, just quick and permanent solutions offered at affordable rates. Ambient Electrical's team has decades of experience diagnosing and fixing electrical issues, so they have encountered virtually every type of problem that today's customer may have. Read more about their expert advice here: <https://www.easternsuburbselectrician.net.au/services/ceiling-fans-installation-sydney/>.

They are one of the leading residential and commercial electricians in the region, serving the Eastern suburbs of Sydney and nearby areas, including Bronte, Bondi, Botany, Coogee, Randwick, Rose Bay, Watsons Bay, Waverley, Vaucluse, Zetland and now also servicing the Inner West suburbs. Their 24-hour emergency service made the news this winter, featured on both the RFD TV and Fox34 news sites.

The articles highlighted that the firm is known for their fast response times, often providing solutions within an hour of being called. Ambient Electrical has highly qualified electricians on hand at all times, helping them ensure that no home in Sydney need go through one night without light. In one of these articles, the company stated, "We focus on solving the problem right at the roots to ensure a permanent and long term solution because we understand that no one wants to call electricians every second day to address the same problem time and time again."

The firm provides a full range of services to both commercial and domestic customers. Ambient Electrical can provide expert advice to those looking to reduce their cooling bills by installing energy efficient lighting and ceiling fans.

These essential attributes are reflected in their reviews, which can be read online. Recently, Michelle Nagy gave the firm top marks on Google, stating, "Peter was incredible and helped me with the installation of my ceiling fan. He was quick and easy to deal with. Would highly recommend him to anyone!"

Anthony Mavromati, Director at Dojik Pty. Ltd enjoyed a similar level of care, attention, and professionalism as one of the company's commercial customers. In his review, he stated, "For over 10 years, Peter has provided an honest, reliable, and quality service. I rely on Ambient Electrical for all my electrical needs, and he understands a lot about the building industry. I consider Peter a friend and someone that is trustworthy and professional He gets the job done."
