Hamburg, N.Y. ? Lind-Hart Mini Ship, a local provider of freight shipping in Hamburg, NY, was recently awarded the opportunity to fulfill a shipment for a Ripley's Believe It or Not! Museum located in Orlando, FL. The store's owner, Andrew Nyhart, was contacted by Kurtis Moellmann with Ripley's Believe It or Not! regarding an unusual shipment. The museum franchise is known for their unique and strange collection of replicas and attractions from around the world. Some of their collections include wax replicas, ancient skeletons, unusual artwork and more.

This particular attraction was a glass display case with conjoined calf twins from a cattle farm near Limestone, New York. Because of how unusual the case was, the original owners had the calves preserved by a local taxidermist in 1955. As one of the only packing and shipping stores in the area able to handle a shipment of this kind, Lind-Hart Mini Ship was given the opportunity to handle this order. ?This was an exciting job for the team at Lind-Hart,? says Nyhart. ?My team loved this unusual shipment, but for us, it's what we do, we provide solutions. From small jobs like Christmas presents to large items shipped in custom-built crates, it ended up being just another day.?

For 30 years, Lind-Hart Mini Ship has remained independently family-owned and operated in Hamburg, NY. They are the top pack and ship store in the Western New York area that specialize in packing, shipping, printing and business services and mailbox rentals in Hamburg. The Lind-Hart Mini Ship staff are professionally trained experts who provide excellent customer care in a convenient, efficient and friendly environment and are dedicated to providing solutions for any package and shipping challenge.
