Euro Pros Collision Center has announced that owners of high end vehicles in need of repair or restoration will no longer have to go to a dealer to get a collision repair job done. They are based right outside of Washington D.C. in Gaithersburg, Maryland making them a more convenient choice than dealers that are further away. Family owned and operated, Euro Pros prides itself on providing customers with a service that goes above and beyond the norm that people expect. Expert assistance and courtesy help customers who have experienced an unfortunate auto accident.

High end vehicles are not something that are often seen in everyday life. When they are seen they usually cause heads to turn and the owner of any such vehicle will know this and will always want the vehicle to look its very best. Dirt, grime, dings and dents that detract from this will not be acceptable. Euro Pros provides a full-service auto body shop for high end vehicles. They also offer a guarantee that any foreign or domestic vehicle that enters its workshop will be professionally repaired and finished to manufacturers specifications.

Accidents happen and when they do an auto body shop is usually number one on the list of things that need to be considered to get a vehicle back on the road. Knowing which shop to choose is not always easy. High end car owners may often find that a dealer is not close by. This is where Euro Pros can help. Their experts and professionals can be trusted to do the work to the same standard as main dealers. Euro Pros are certified collision repair experts for Lamborghini, Rolls Royce, McLaren, Tesla, Audi, and Porsche. Certification by manufacturers of cars of that quality is not something that is easily obtained. It has to be earned and that can only be done when the auto shop is one of the very highest quality.

David Lehmann was looking for a Porsche collision repair shop after his Porsche was damaged in a car park while he was shopping. He said, "I came back to my car to find that someone had either reversed or driven into it causing some quite significant front-end damage. I was not very happy, to say the least. My insurance company suggested Euro Pros and so I had the car taken there once I had checked around. I was a little skeptical as I had expected to use a main dealer, but they had a good reputation. They did a magnificent job and I got it back in showroom condition. You'd never know it had been in a crash."

It is not just collision damage repair that Euro Pros offers, though. Often a car is simply in need of restoration and that service is available too. The same experts who do collision damage repairs can help restore a vehicle back to factory specifications using the very latest technology available. Euro Pros Collision Center is an expert in professional refinishing. Even high end vehicles are sometimes in need of a paint job to bring them back into top condition. Owners of quality vehicles are going to want a quality job. Euro Pros offers a wide variety of refinishing services.

A spokesperson for Euro Pros said, "We can refinish both the exterior and the interior of a vehicle, including the upholstery. We use a computerized paint-matching system to ensure the color is a good match and all paint jobs are completed using state-of-the-art equipment."

Apart from major undertakings such as collision damage repairs and refinishing, Euro Pros offers additional services for owners of high end cars. Detailing, waxing and polishing, expert A/C servicing are all available. Adding accessories is also something that they can undertake if so desired by a customer.

Ultimately, what this means for owners in need of a high end auto body shop is that Euro Pros Collision Center has the experience, the trained professionals, and the certified expertise to get a vehicle back on the road in showroom condition.
