MINNEAPOLIS, MN - November 12, 2019 -

Many of those in Minneapolis that have had auto lock issues in the past consider The Key Guys to be the best auto locksmith in the area. Much of this has to do with the fact that they offer a wide range of vehicle locksmith services to different types of customers. Some people might be surprised to learn that they have a strong working relationship with many area car dealerships. This makes sense when one considers all the different key problems and vehicle lock issues that car dealerships often run into. It?s understandable that they would want a good working relationship with a competent and responsive automotive locksmith service.

Company spokesperson Bryan Nystrom said this about their important working relationships with area car dealers, ?One must realize that car dealerships handle a tremendous number of keys during their daily operations. They need keys to move cars on the lot, to allow vehicles to be test-driven, and to bring cars in and out of service bays. With all that key movement, some are bound to get lost or misplaced. Car Dealerships are also sometimes given too few keys or the wrong keys by those that trade in their cars. That?s why we are pleased to be able to help many Minneapolis car dealers quickly resolve any auto key issues they run into during the workday.?

Nystrom went on to say that with their company?s experience, it?s easy for them to make new car keys for Dealerships. This is true no matter what type of auto key that a dealer needs to be made or duplicated. Their service vehicles are stocked with many different types of key blanks and carry all the latest and best key making equipment on board too. The fact they are a 100% mobile vehicle locksmith service is a big benefit to area dealerships too. None of the Dealerships employees must lose valuable time running to a locksmith shop or a hardware center to get new keys made.

The spokesperson also pointed out that most of the car keys manufactured these days for automobiles are not just straightforward metal keys cut from key blanks. A large majority of auto keys at the present time are transponder keys. These keys have a cut end like regular car keys but also have a plastic or rubber end that acts as a small radio signal transmitter. When the buttons on it are pushed, it allows for such actions as the unlocking and locking of car doors and turning on and off a vehicle's alarm system.

Unfortunately, these are types of keys that will malfunction from time to time. That?s why the locksmiths at The Key Guys have undergone extensive training in order to be able to fix broken car keys. They do such transponder key repairs as fixing inoperable buttons and changing out dead batteries. The skilled locksmiths at the company can even reprogram malfunctioning transponder keys. This becomes necessary when a transponder key is no longer communicating properly with the host vehicle. All the necessary equipment to be able to do transponder key repairs and duplications is carried right onboard the spacious service vehicles that the company?s locksmiths drive.

Making new keys and repairing old ones are not the only automotive locksmith tasks that The Key Guys can do for car dealerships either. They can also extract keys that have broken off in any car lock. Auto locksmiths like The Key Guys are also very good at resolving ignition cylinder lock issues. This includes totally replacing an ignition cylinder if that is deemed necessary. They also can resolve any type of auto lockout situation in a relatively short time.

Another benefit that area car dealerships get from using The Key Guys auto locksmith services is the fact that they can get car key help at any time of the night or day. The company keeps a locksmith on standby 24/7, 365 to handle any emergency auto lock or key issues that arise for their Minneapolis customers.
