

ABCI Creates New Website For Private Flight Charter Company

August 07, 2015

August 07, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Aviation Business Consultants International (ABCI), a Tooele, UT company, has created a new website and social media presences for startup private flight charter company, Fast Flight Jets. This company is a subsidiary of the FastFlight Group and it includes a management team with more than 30 years of experience in the aviation industry, from charters to sales and leasing. Fast Flight Jets provides private flights, which are customized to the needs of their clients.

ABCI provides services that aid businesses in the aviation industry to sell more products and services. They have created a website for Fast Flight Jets, in addition to a strong presence on popular social media sites, such as Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn, through their experienced aviation social media marketing services.

Alex Simkovitz of Fast Flight Jets has released this statement concerning the website startup: "We are pleased with the website, and everyone we have shown it to has been impressed."

ABCI offers consulting services and an Aviation Marketing Master Class, which enables them to consult with a limited number of clients in order to assist them with their aviation website design and marketing needs.

They provide a full suite of services including inbound, content, and direct response marketing. The clients of ABCI include businesses in aircraft sales, management, training, charter, and various other services, such as finance and insurance.

Paula Williams, President and at Aviation Business Consultants International, knows that experience in the aviation industry is important. She explains, "Our master class includes a wide range of people with experience in everything from marketing to sales, and all related to aviation. We apply what we know, which is why our consulting services work so well for the aviation industry."

ABCI consults with clients in the aviation industry and tailors specific services that are designed to meet their needs and overall business goals, using experience in aviation to provide quality design and marketing services.
