Spartan Plumbing, Heating & Cooling, based in Tucson, Arizona, has announced that they are one of the few companies in Arizona that were able to get home insurance companies to cover and approve under-home cast iron pipe water leak repairs with Perma Liner installation. The fact that Spartan Plumbing gets insurance approved Perma-Liner installations may be great news for homeowners who are looking to save on costly sewer problems. The use of Perma Liner technology also means that damaged underground sewer lines can be repaired with little or no digging.

Mike Gesty, a spokesperson for Spartan Plumbing, Heating & Cooling, says, "The main benefit to trenchless repairs is less disturbance on your property. We won't have to dig up your entire front yard to find and replace the main line. You will also save on sod and other landscaping replacements, common in traditional trench jobs. This is true of sewer pipe lining in repairing old or deteriorating pipes. We simply insert a fiberglass liner through the existing pipe, minimizing damage and unnecessary excavation. This comes with a full 50-year warranty on service and replacement, which is backed by Perma-Liner Industries and Spartan Plumbing, Heating & Cooling. We are the only company in Tucson that the warranty is covered by Perma-Liner industries and Spartan plumbing."

Trenchless sewer repairs can also be completed faster when compared to the conventional method. The Perma Liner technology makes use of a polyurethane tube that fits within the old pipes. When there is a need to break in an underground pipe, the professionals from Spartan Plumbing simply snake the Perma Liner system into the existing pipe. Thus, it requires little to no digging. This method offers a much better long-term solution compared to the traditional way of replacing pipes. It is this method that Spartan Plumbing was able to get covered by home insurance.

Another trenchless method that can be used by Spartan Plumbing is pipe bursting. This will just require digging two holes to access both ends of the pipe to be replaced. They will then insert into the old pipe a special "bursting" header with the new pipe attached to the back. As this bursting head gets further inside the old pipe, it breaks apart the old pipe while the new pipe is pulled through.

The fact that their methods provide excellent results has been evident in the Spartan Plumbing, Heating & Cooling reviews. For example, Peter E. gave them a five star rating and said, "First time user and future client. Professional, dependable and reliable in solving any and all plumbing issues. Most of all, very client oriented. They just don't come in and here's the bill. Had the pleasure of meeting Rick and he answered all my plumbing questions. Service is prompt and operators are courteous."

Larry T. also gave them a five star review and said, "Highly recommend Spartan Plumbing. I had a plug in the main line and they were responsive, professional and cleared the line quickly. Also, very reasonably priced and I will definitely use them in the future."
