

iPas2 Review Examines New Marketing System Launch

August 15, 2014 -

Brooklyn, NY-- A new marketing system, iPas2 (Internet Prospect Acceleration System) is about to launch. A successor to iPas, the system provides step by step marketing training, along with business coaching and support. "One of the biggest difficulties facing entrepreneurs is knowing how to effectively market," said David Lelong, who recently wrote an iPas2 review. "The beauty of iPas2 is that it teaches people not only the basics of marketing, but even provides the content they need."

Lelong said one benefit of the system is how quickly users can get started. "The explicit instructions and having the content in hand makes it simple for anyone." He also noted that the commission structure is very high, compared to similar systems. "It's at least 70%, up to 100% commission. That provides an excellent incentive to users."

iPas2's training includes information on sales funnels, how to drive online traffic, the benefits of using a funded proposal, lead capture, and conversion tracking. Live training is provided daily by 6- and 7-figure earners.

"The training is highly effective, but the real advantage is the coaching piece," he said. "The one on one coaching really helps both new and experienced marketers put the training into practice. In addition there is phone and chat support available. The business coaching and education go much farther than what other platforms provide. I've put my [other] business coaching on hold in order to focus my efforts on iPas2 and their coaching. "

Lelong said he considers himself a success story, having made his first $10,000 online using the original iPas system. "I'm looking forward to getting deeper into iPas2 as it launches. I believe users are going to experience a high rate of success with the system and see their earnings increase dramatically."

iPas2 was created by Chris Jones, a 7-figure marketer and co-creator of iPas. "iPas2 is all new," said Lelong. "It was created from the ground up based on 4 years of research to provide the very best marketing training and support for users. The system goes beyond what iPas was. Its simplicity and effectiveness will create many opportunities for people who have an entrepreneurial spirit, but lack the marketing knowledge." To read the full review, go to <http://davidlelong.com/ipas2-review/>.
