A number of clients have left reviews online praising the company's high quality service. One review on Angie's List states, 'One word! Amazing! Such a professional caring team. My condo was struck by lightning and the team came out and took care of whatever was needed and also took the time to educate me. I had called other places and I can honestly say I made the right decision. The team at Air One actually cares where everyone was in it for the money and, basically, if you sounded clueless the more it sounded like they would charge. Hands down best team to work with!'

'The replacement happened in Jan. '18 during a record cold spell,' says another review on the same customer review platform. 'During the first visit, the tech did a very simple fix to a switch, and not only didn't charge me, but he also showed me how to do it if I had more problems so I wouldn't need to wait for a service call. It was a very old system so it actually died within a week. Mike and his team showed up fast, did the install within a day, and they didn't leave a speck of dust or a scrap of wire behind. Mike was very clear about what needed to be done and what it would cost, and the price was very reasonable. They ran into difficulty installing the unit because it's an old house, but even when they had to drill into the concrete slab the cost didn't change.'
