November 18, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Dons Towing is strengthening its campaign for roadside assistance service in Denver, CO, and its surrounding communities by launching improved emergency services that drivers can request by calling their hotline number. Motorists in and around the Denver region no longer have to worry about car breakdowns or engine failures along the road because help is now just a dial away. By simply calling (720) 428-2135, a tow rescue team will immediately be dispatched to bring help they need.

"This is another exciting step towards advancing our overall mission to ensure the security of the driving public. We are fortifying our dedication to promoting a community intent and making Denver a safer place to drive, travel and visit," says company representative, Xavier Yoder.

Aside from emergency towing, people can call Dons Towing to get assistance for a flat tire change, discharged battery, car lockout issues, and empty fuel tanks. Their towing technicians are also skilled and knowledgeable about many mechanical troubleshoots and quick car fixes to get motorists back on the road in no time. For car problems that entail extensive repair, the towing company can refer and haul the defective vehicle to the nearest accredited auto repair centers. Aside from their extensive roadside assistance experience, their towing technicians also underwent skills training in automotive technology to ensure that they get the job done in no time. They also utilize the latest tools, equipment, and repair techniques to spare customers the stress and trouble of leaving their broken-down vehicle. Yoder adds that their services are fully bonded and insured to protect customers from shoddy services and safeguard their properties from avoidable damages.

The most in-demand roadside assistance that the company provides is jumpstart services. It is very common for batteries to get drained because of loose cables, faulty charging, and weather conditions. Before conducting jumpstart services, however, the company technicians perform a thorough inspection of the vehicle to ensure that a jumpstart service can fix the trouble or a battery replacement is required. In the case of the latter, the vehicle can simply be hauled to the nearest battery shop. This is done to prevent the double charging of a customer for jumpstart services and towing. "We make sure that the service we provide will effectively address the problem and help the customer. Time and money are wasted if you jumpstart a dead battery that needs replacement," says Yoder.

A competitive feature of their roadside assistance campaign is its low-cost rates. The company offers its services at modest rates to make it more accessible to the driving public. Cheap roadside assistance in Denver, CO is more appealing than competitors. Moreover, the company does not make unnecessary services that only inflate customer bills nor make any surprising charges.

Also, Dons Towing has revealed that it is expanding its roadside assistance services across the city of Denver, CO. It has deployed more emergency assistance teams in key locations so that they can provide faster assistance to the stranded motorists especially in distant communities within their service coverage area. Communities from Columbine Valley, Quimby, South and North Glenn, Rolla, Castlewood, and Hazeltine Heights, among others can now expect a faster response for roadside assistance when they call for help. "We will keep on testing safety models through innovative brand solutions. We will create smart, easy-to-access tools, like our website and our social media platforms that work to improve the way we handle the notion of safety and well-being of the driving public in Denver, CO," says Yoder.
