Dan Chudleigh, a personal injury attorney of the firm Chudleigh Law P.C., based in Orange County, California, has been named a Rising Star for the second year in a row by the Super Lawyers website. This award is given to attorneys who exhibit excellence in the practice of law and are either 40 years old or younger or have been in practice for 10 years or less. More information on Chudleigh and the local firm is available here: www.chudleighlaw.com.

The Rising Star title is awarded every year to a thoroughly vetted and exclusive list of the most promising and successful lawyers in the state. Chudleigh is honored to be part of California's list of Rising Stars for the second year in a row, being featured in Super Lawyers Magazine and accompanied by 2.5% of attorneys in South California. He is now featured permanently on the Super Lawyers website as one of the best attorneys in the area.

Chudleigh expresses joy in being selected as a Rising Star for the second year in a row, as he says, "It is an immense honor for me to have my efforts recognized in this manner. Providing stellar legal representation has always been my first and foremost priority, and I value the relationship with my clients above all else. I have found that getting to know their case on a deep level and understanding their circumstances bears the most fruit when it comes to representing their best interests in court. I am honored to serve the Orange County community, and I assure my clients that they can expect nothing but the best at Chudleigh Law P.C.."

As noted on the Super Lawyers website, attorneys must meet certain criteria to be selected as a Rising Star. Aside from meeting the age requirement and being in the field for less than 10 years, they must have attained certain honors, results or credentials, which indicate a high degree of peer recognition or professional competence. This is further emphasized by the fact that nominees are selected based on votes received by other attorneys in the area, after which Super Lawyers take the most promising candidates and consider them based on a series of 12 indicators of peer recognition and professional achievement.

Those who meet these criteria are evaluated once more by the Super Lawyer team in a blue ribbon panel, where they are appraised based on their practice area. After this, candidates are grouped into four categories based on the firm's size, and those with the highest point from each category are selected. This process is thorough and extensive; the Super Lawyers note that they do not tend to select more than 2.5% of an area's attorneys.

Given the excellence and expertise that the Chudleigh Law P.C. attorneys bring to each of their clients, Chudleigh's selection as one of the best attorneys is not a turn of events that his peers find surprising. He has maintained a distinguished reputation and amassed several success stories in Orange County over the course of his work.
