November 26, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

London, UK, based RSJ Drains Unblocking & CCTV Drain Surveys is delighted to announce that they have gained another glowing customer review on the highly rated CheckATrade website for their outstanding services. RSJ Drains is a family-run team that cares for their customers and provides emergency drain unblocking services as well as CCTV drain surveys. Learn more here: <http://rsjdrains.com/>.

Speaking on behalf of the company, Carl Rumsey says, "Our commitment to our customers is well known throughout the industry, and getting customer feedback like this makes us proud to do our very best on any job. Not many of our customers get as excited as we do at finding and fixing problems, but we are happy to help them learn if they want to understand our work."

The latest verified review gave them top marks in all CheckATrade categories, awarding them the highest score possible. Their customer found themselves in a dire situation with blocked drainage that was causing water to cascade out of a pipe behind the washing machine. In their review, they stated that, "Carl was relentless at finding out the source of the blockage and had to hack through four layers of plywood behind a cupboard to find the pipe joint, which was totally blocked. He was thorough and spoke to our previous builders to understand the pipe layouts and installation to solve the problem. They ended their review saying they would highly recommend RSJ Drains to other customers.

Any drain blockage in a home or business should be investigated quickly. However, many people do not recognise they have a problem, so the blockage will often have been festering for some time when they finally notice an issue. While it is understood that foul smells are a dead giveaway for a blockage, many people fail to realise that other signs can indicate a problems as well, such as their pipes and fixtures making unusual sounds. The sound of gurgling, in particular, is an example of this.

Anyone investing in property is encouraged to have the drains checked as part of the survey. RSJ Drains can provide reports that will satisfy all parties involved, including solicitors. RSJ Drains also recommends that homeowners have their drains checked if they choose to extend their homes instead of moving. The firm's Drain Inspections & Surveys service will record and identify current problems as well as hidden issues that could cause subsidence in the future. As part of the report, the company will share recommendations for any works necessary to ensure that the drains are working properly. The company recommends that anyone who is experiencing a recurring blockage for any drains for which they are responsible use their CCTV survey. Using their crawler unit and mobile CCTV, RSJ Drains can inspect the structural condition of the drain. This will help identify future problems before they occur. The firm also offers a mapping service should customers request it. This useful addition can generate a 2D view on AutoCAD of the directions that their drains run.

One of their Wickford customers gave them a perfect 10.0 score, stating, "RSJ Drains are by far the best drainage engineers I have ever used in the 20 years I have been project managing sites. These works and all others they complete for me are always completed on time and to great standards. Carl is extremely helpful / knowledgeable and goes above what any other contractor has done in the past. I would highly recommend him and his team to anyone."

RSJ Drains has consistently offered high quality service to their customers over the years. Their CCTV Drain surveys have become very popular, as they provide an accurate picture and relevant information on whether an issue needs to be addressed quickly or whether it just needs to be monitored going forward.
