Costa Mesa, California based home and kitchen goods manufacturer Almond Home is pleased to announce that they are releasing a brand new 8-inch copper ceramic frying pan with lid.

Patrick Powell, a spokesperson for Almond Home, says, "We created this new copper pan after many of our customers specifically requested an Almond Home non-stick pan of this size and quality. This particular pan has a thick gauge aluminum base and sides that allows for quick and even heat distribution. In addition, we have worked hard to improve the non-stick surface by using the Fusion HR Ceramic Nonstick by Whitford."

The company asserts that the pan's non-stick performance is exceptional. The pan has been subject to two extremely harsh tests: Whitford's Thermal Stress Test and Whitford's Chemical Stress Test. Powell says, "Both the tests have confirmed what we already knew: Almond Home's 8-inch copper ceramic frying pan with lid lasts 2.5 times longer than any other similar product. Our product also has properties previously thought to be unattainable in a sol-gel "ceramic" nonstick coating pan."

The pan is made of durable non-stick copper, which makes it the perfect medium to easily cook delicious eggs, omelets and other recipes evenly without any food sticking. Almond Home states that the copper pan is oven safe, up to 420 degrees Fahrenheit. The beautiful ceramic coating used in the pan is PTFE and PFOA free, which means that users are free to cook their favorite meals safely and without using any of the extra oil and butter needed for traditional pans and skillets. The pan has also been carefully manufactured to measure a robust 3.0 millimeters across its base, which allows for optimum heat control and distribution.

The pan also has a tempered glass lid that is oven safe up to temperatures of 500 degrees Fahrenheit. The design of the lid is meant to keep dishes warm inside the pan until they're ready for plating. The transparency of the glass also allows users to keep an eye on things so that they can ensure the perfect finish on their meal.

Almond Home also states that the product can be used with a variety of cooktops, be it gas, induction, electric or even the grill. According to the company, each skillet is made to resist oxidation, and will not tarnish. The pan is also 100% dishwasher safe.

Almond Home has proven themselves to be an excellent manufacturer of home products and cookware. The quality craftsmanship and durability of Almond Home's products has earned them great praise from their customers. In a review found on the company's website, Joymae G. shares her experience with an Almond Home product, saying, "This pan is amazing. They are not kidding about the non-stick coating. I can cook greasy food in it and just wipe it clean with a sponge. Also, no fork or knife marks on it after a lot of use. The lid fits perfectly and has a vent. Also, dishwasher safe! This is my new favorite pan."

In an Amazon review for the company's Premium 12 Inch Aluminum Fry Pan with Glass Lid & Stainless Steel Handle, Pam D. says, "I've had many different brand of pans over the years, all losing the non-stick surface within months, some even faster. I've had this pan for over a month, use it about four times a week, and the non-stick is as great as it was on day one! Absolutely love the size of this pan, holds my double batch of spaghetti sauce with room to spare. Easy to clean, and having a lid is invaluable. The only inconvenience is that the lid cannot be stored upside down in the pan. Small price to pay for an amazing pan!"
