

New Site Enables Comparison Of Visa Application Agencies

August 12, 2015

August 12, 2015 -
Visa Compare, a new London, England based company, has launched a website that enables a comparison of different Visa suppliers. The site will compare various Visa application agencies and provide results based on the country of origin and the purpose of the Visa.

Visa Compare is an internationally owned and funded search engine that has no affiliation to a specific country, destination, or immigration service. The company's goal is to assist those needing Visas by connecting them with immigration companies and service providers, including governmental and private or public agencies, on a global level.

Xi Lin of Visa Compare released this statement about the new website launch, "We want to be the leading name for immigration specialists as well as consumers, as the most trusted site where people can get information and be better informed about their options."

The search engine will provide a listing of Visa services, enabling users to sort through only the agencies that can assist with their specific needs.

The service is free for consumers, and quickly offers information regarding family, tourist, and resident Visas, among others. The company will also provide a host of other information such as destination guides and advice on visiting specific countries, including specific country Visa information which can often be difficult for consumers to find on their own.

"We help connect consumers to the right immigration advisors to arrange any type of Visa that they may need. We feel that obtaining a Visa and moving to or visiting another country shouldn't be difficult," says Lin.

The company states that whenever possible, they will promote government websites. These sites are free to use, and offer information on various types of Visas. Since however, government sites are not always as accessible as others, the site will also provide information for private agencies in various countries, to give consumers a wide range of choices when it comes to researching and applying for needed Visas.

"We just want to provide consumers with all of the information that they need to make the best decision possible for themselves and their families," says Lin.
