Tow and More has announced that they have launched their towing service business in Baltimore, Maryland. They are able to provide both local and long distance towing at an affordable rate, in various forms, from flatbed towing to wheel lift towing and roadside assistance. They began as a family operated towing company but they have now grown into one of the most trusted wrecker teams in the area, having more than 15 years of experience.

Tanner Davis, a spokesperson for Tow and More, says, "If you are stuck on the side of the road in Baltimore and neighboring areas and need help in towing your car fast, give Tow and More a call. We have several tow trucks equipped with tools and equipment to safely tow your car where you want it to be. Operated by trained and certified technicians, you can be confident that your car is in capable hands."

Tow and More has flatbed tow trucks to provide dependable flatbed towing. This kind of tow truck can accommodate a wide range of vehicles, which means the company would be able to move any kind of motor vehicle to the client's desired destination. Furthermore, they have a team of towing experts who know how to take care of the vehicles that are being transported or moved. Tow trucks are oftentimes needed at inconvenient times, such as when a motor vehicle gets stuck in the mud or snow and the driver requires assistance in pulling it out of there and get it back on the road. This is why they are available 24/7.

For motor vehicles that are in the middle range, such as delivery vans, recreational vehicles, etc., Tow and More has medium duty tow trucks. They also have the right tools and devices for proper towing of such vehicles. And most important is that they have the right crew who are trained and have adequate experience in towing those vehicles without encountering problems. The most common towing service available for the Baltimore area is of course the light vehicle towing service. For cars that have to be brought to the shop, Tow and More can offer wheel lift towing. Tow and More has a team of experts in getting a vehicle out of the snow or mud. They also have tow trucks that have winch-out cables that can be used to pull out the vehicle where it got stuck and get it back on the road.

Getting stranded on the road in a secluded area can be a frightening experience. Fortunately, Tow and More is always available 24 hours a day, at any day of the week. They have trained and certified technicians who can go to a particular location in the Baltimore area and neighboring areas as fast as possible.
