NXR Global, a business in Mechanicsville, VA, has recently launched a new opportunity for people to get rid of their cable bills. They offer a service that allows people to watch all the greatest and latest movies, their favorite series, documentaries, live sporting events and more without ever having to pay the cable company again. Further details about this VStream Service can be found on <http://www.nomorecabletvbills.com>.

"Many of us still remember having black and white televisions and a handful of channels at best," says Jerry Moore from NXR Global. "Those times are gone, thankfully. We now feel that we need to have at least 300 channels to flick through, even if nothing is on. However, paying the cable company for this flicking, particularly if there is nothing on, seems unfair and something most of us would rather not do. Our VStream Service enables people to watch what they want, when they want and cut the cable completely."

The VStream is basically a smart TV box. It streams any online content in full HD without having to pay any monthly fees or having to sign up to lengthy contracts. Rather, people purchase the VStream receiver, and they will be ready to watch any television program they like without ever having to pay for it again.

The system comes with an unlimited movie collection, both in terms of old classics and new releases. No longer do people have to wait for their favorite TV show to become available on some of the poorer quality streaming services. Every episode will immediately be available. In fact, even adult channels can be watched, while at the same allowing people to install parental controls.

"We recently held a webinar that explains exactly how the VStream system works," adds Jerry Moore. "We encourage everyone to take a look at it and to see how they can change their television watching life for the better almost instantly."

What the webinar also explained, as can be seen on <https://vimeo.com/127721953>, was that people can become VStream distributors. The earning potential is huge in that area. Furthermore, signing up as a distributor is completely free.
