December 03, 2019 -

Jacobs Low Price Auto Glass, a highly rated auto glass repair provider in Dallas, Texas, is pleased to express their appreciation for the outstanding support that they have received from the community. As such, they assert that this support serves to help them reaffirm their commitment to their customers. The local company has been serving Dallas for nearly two decades, and they are one of the few family-owned and operated repair shops still active in the area.

Thomas, a spokesperson for Jacobs Low Price Auto Glass, says, "While several parts of our service have changed over our company's extensive history, the one thing that remains the same is our commitment towards helping the community. Dallas residents continue to choose us because we are strongly motivated to adapt our service to their needs. We do so because we believe that providing the best customer experience for them is of the utmost importance."

Jacobs Low Price Auto Glass has received over 250 customer reviews on Google and other review platforms, placing the local company among the most popular and best-rated glass repair specialists in Dallas. Several comments have complemented the promptness with which they fulfill their projects in addition to the quality of their repairs. Customers also tend to appreciate the extensive experience that the company's team brings to every job.

One of their most recent customer reviews highlights this commitment towards finding a solution for their clients. Aaron Munoz, through Google, says, "I had a fantastic experience with Jacob?s Low Price Auto Glass. My front windshield had a pretty big crack in it. I called around 12:30 pm, and even though they didn?t have my window in stock, they said they would have one in two hours. I pulled up and made myself comfortable in their waiting room. It only took about 30 minutes before I was on my way."

This demonstrates that, despite having one of the largest inventories of auto glass in Dallas, Jacobs Low Price Auto Glass is willing to go the extra mile in order to help their clients and find a solution that suits them as closely as possible. Thomas says, "We know that there is no convenient time for a car?s glass to experience damage, though finding a good time to fix or replace a break can be challenging. We understand that waiting for days to get a replacement is not an option, depending on the extent of the glass' damage, and driving around town with a damaged windshield is a hazard to everyone on the road. Therefore, we pour all of our effort into making our services accessible, convenient, and reliable. From the first moment a client walks into our store, we are already committed to helping them and finding a way to get them back on the road safely."

Jacobs Low Price Auto Glass offers a complete list of services, throughout which they ensure that Dallas residents always have a reliable repair shop to call upon regardless of their needs. These services include Windshield Replacement, Power Window Repair, and Specialized Glass Repair. All of these services are available at an affordable price, as the local company takes pride in offering the most competitive auto glass repair services in Dallas.

The company states that each of their services is carried out by a highly-qualified team of professionals, all of whom have several years of experience in the industry. To aid their team, Jacobs Low Price Auto Glass makes use of high-end equipment that is specifically designed for the job at hand. These tools ease the installation or repair project that their team engage in, allowing them to complete their work promptly, safely, and without compromising the quality of the job.
