BBI Flags, based in East Lansing, MI, has recently launched a flag holder on Amazon and on their own website. The company has reported that the BBI Flag Pole Holder Bracket has been incredibly popular, as the company is struggling to keep up with demand because the product has been flying off the shelves. "We have been so surprised by the enthusiasm for our Flag Pole Holder Bracket," says Nina Bailey, spokesperson for BBI Flags.

Since the product was introduced, customers have been talking about its various beneficial features. First of all, they found that it is very easy to install. Furthermore, it is a very strong pole holder as it is made from durable materials. It is very common for other flag holders to break down after just some use, but the BBI Flags model has been shown to be able to withstand high winds and other such storms.

"We live on top of a hill, up from a river," says Nicole from Oregon. "Our house gets A LOT of wind. We've had a large flag, with a 6 foot long pole, installed with this bracket for the past 5ish months and so far it has held up very well. The flag whips all around in the wind but hasn't come out of the bracket. It was easy to install and it's easy to use. I would absolutely buy again!"

The flag pole bracket is made from a lightweight aluminum and has demonstrated strength and sturdiness. It also comes with three separate stainless steel screws and a handy knob that allows people to tighten the pole itself. It also allows for two different flag hanging positions, which are 45 degrees and 90 degrees.

BBI Flags fully stands behind the quality of their products. This is why their flag pole holder comes with a full year manufacturer's warranty. If anyone is not absolutely happy with their product, it can be returned for a full refund, no questions asked. For the company, the goal is to make sure everybody is able to wave their banner and flag proudly, regardless of weather or climate and not have to worry about it breaking or flying away.
