December 09, 2019

December 09, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Self Contained Hot Water Sink trailers are used for wildland firefighting, and they pay thousands of dollars a day for each trailer. As a business, significant income can be earned by renting the trailers to the Forest Service.

Overgaard AZ: Wildland Sink Trailers and Paul Meacham are pleased to announce their inventory line of hand wash trailers in various sizes. The Wildland mobile hand wash stations are ideal for many situations including, remote areas, large crowds at events, and are absolutely crucial for wildland firefighting emergencies and other disasters. The emergency mobile hand washing units are packed full of features and are fully self-contained. So whether it is an event in a remote location or right outside the door, the trailers are ready to serve customers.

The stations meet all United States Forest Service and CAL fire requirements. The trailers are maintained with the latest standards. The hand washing stations come trailer mounted and contain their own potable and gray water. Each trailer has hot and cold running water, sinks, mirrors, soap dispensers, paper towel dispensers, and LED lighting, and many more features and available add-ons like bunk-beds on sized appropriate trailers.

The construction features include undercoating the entire underside of the all-steel frame. There is an aluminum exterior, and the unit is lightweight. It is easily pulled with a half-ton pickup, using a two-inch standard ball hitch. The trailers have four 110 volt outlets outside for fire personnel to use with a charging shelf (new requirement this year). There are four Load Leveler jacks of 5,000 lbs each and a new DEWALT 20V Max 1/4" Impact Driver Kit to raise and lower jacks.

A spokesperson for the company went on to list additional features, "The units include 500 +/-gallons Poly Fresh Water Tank with 2 drains and a 500-gallon grey water storage pillow tank with all hoses and connections. Also included are stainless steel sinks, safety glass mirrors, Scott paper towel dispensers, liquid soap dispensers, adjustable water faucets, a fresh water pump assembly, high-efficiency on-demand propane water heater. All plumbing is PVC and PEX, and the units are plumbed for easy winterization."
