December 10, 2019 -
Local plumbing company, The Plumbers Guild, announces their new website designed to provide easy access to services and plumbing resources for customers. The site offers details about their full range of commercial and residential plumbing services, including plumbing repair, leak detection, bathroom plumbing, and water line repair.

Serving the Brookhaven area for more than ten years, The Plumbers Guild is continually seeking innovative ways to connect with customers. The company created the new website to better meet the needs of its customers with a user-friendly and responsive design accessible across all devices and platforms. The fresh look and modern design make the site easy to navigate as customers look for more information about the plumbing solutions and services to keep their business or home plumbing operating smoothly.

?The Plumbers Guild developed the new site with loyal customers and prospective customers in mind,? said owner, Corey Wimpey. ?The team believes it?s not enough just to provide plumbing services, which is why the company strives to facilitate the highest level of communication and service to customers?both in-person and online.?

Site visitors can read customer testimonials as well as details about The Plumbing Guild?s 100% satisfaction guarantee. The articles section offers a wide range of articles on plumbing topics to help customers find solutions to their pressing plumbing concerns.

Although the company provides support services 24/7, 365 days a year, the website serves as yet another way customers can get in touch and find the resources they need when it is most convenient for them.

?As licensed, insured professional plumbers, The Plumbers Guild consider it a primary goal to create satisfied customers with each and every contact,? said Wimpey. ?The team hopes the updated website will prove to be another example of how the company goes above and beyond the guidelines of traditional plumbing services to build relationships with highly valued customers.?
