Butler Auto Recycling, a salvage yard in Pensacola, FL, has recently opened their doors to a new location in Milton, FL. When it comes to a salvage yard Milton, FL residents have expressed a clear desire to have one nearer to their home, and Butler was more than happy to comply. Besides the Pensacola offices, and now the Milton one, they also service the Mobile, Alabama area.

"We have been operating in Florida and Alabama for some time now and have grown a reputation as being one of the best of the best," says Jim Butler from Butler Auto Recycling. "So much so, in fact, that people from all over Florida started to come to our Pensacola office. This is why we felt we would serve our customers better by opening a second office in Florida, with all the same standards and service."

The company has been offering high quality used auto parts for many years. They also purchase junk cars, from which they salvage any usable parts. Butler's Auto always encourages people to visit any of their three locations in order to see whether the part they are looking for may be available. Alternatively, they can telephone the company. Known for its fantastic customer service, people have been raving about Butler's for some time now.

The company also offers a range of other services. For instance, they also sell full, usable vehicles. Furthermore, they offer a U-Pull It service and they work with heavy duty vehicles. Finally, they offer a tire store to their customers.

"We want to make sure that people can receive the best quality service and the best quality auto parts Milton offers at a price that they can afford," adds Jim Butler. "Whether they want to get rid of their old junk car or whether they want to buy something cheap, we are there for them."

Residents of Milton, FL, have been very positive about the opening of the new office. They feel that it has given them an opportunity to access a vital service closer to home. For Butler, this is further proof of the reputation they have already built up.
