December 20, 2019 -
Ontario, Canada based ShowerMeister, a website dedicated to reviewing bathroom equipment and accessories, is pleased to share a new batch of reviews for the market?s top shower accessories. The company has over 15 years of experience with nearly all kinds of bathroom products and their website is intended to help consumers with their buying decisions.

The first review shared by the company looks into handheld shower heads. Mike Chrest, a representative for the company, says, ?There are a lot of new high pressure shower heads that boast this feature. You might not like them if you?re more used to simple handheld shower heads because they are more practical; they allow you to easily wash your whole body without having to move too much. If that?s the case, our handheld shower head review and buying guide will help you figure out which exact shower head you should purchase for the best results.?

ShowerMeister says their analysis of a large number of shower heads gave them definitive proof showing which ones were the best. According to the company, the best shower heads are the Aquadance, HotelSpa, Vida Alegria H5+, Moen 23015SRN and the Moen 26100SRN. The review praises Moen in particular, saying,

?Moen is a pretty reputable company that specializes in kitchen and bathroom equipment. They have a pretty interesting company history and they have been in this business for years, so you can say that their products are very good.? The full review, which looks into all five shower heads in detail, can be found at the following link: https://showermeister.com/best-handheld-shower-head/.

The company also shared a review which looked into the best shower filters. ?If you live somewhere where the water is dirty and smells bad or if you simply want to have your hard water softened and want to make sure it?s fully clean, you?re going to need to use a shower filter,? explains Chrest. ?The problem you might be facing is that, in a market saturated with so many different filters, you don?t quite know which is the best. But you don?t need to worry?we?re here for you.?

According to ShowerMeister, the best water filters are the APEX MR-7011 S, SPRITE HO2-WH-M, Aqua Elegante and the AQUASANA AQ-4100. The company?s top choice, however, is the AquaBliss. Reviewing the AquaBliss, ShowerMeister says that, ?No matter where you live and how dirty the water is, this shower filter will purify the water and let you have an amazing shower. It can remove Chlorine, Metals, Pesticides, Fungi and all kinds of bacteria. It is also fantastic for removing hard water, which makes it great if you use well water or live on an acreage , farm or in the country. Typically, well water can be hard, and this shower filter can make the hard water go away!? The full review can be found at the following link: https://showermeister.com/best-shower-filters/.

Chrest also explains how shower filters can help improve one?s health. He says, ?Having a shower filter system can improve your health in two distinct ways. For one, it purifies the water, removing all the harmful elements in it that can affect your skin health, in the form of skin disorder and disease. By filtering and reducing the chemicals, metals, hardness, and contaminants, a good shower filter will minimize the probability of a skin disorder by 99%. Since the filter eliminates microbial organisms like germs, bacteria and other forms of allergens, the likelihood of skin diseases will also reduce considerably. In addition to improving your skin?s health, having a good shower filter will also improve the health of your internal organs. If you use a shower filter, over time, you will be able to experience it?s positive effects on your muscular, cardiovascular, neutral and skeletal systems.?
