Fusion Specialty Pharmacy Increases Custom Compounding

September 01, 2015

September 01, 2015 -
Santa Clara, Utah based Fusion Specialty Pharmacy provides custom compounding to meet the growing prescription demands for children and seniors.

"Compounded medications are on the rise," states Koby Taylor, Pharmacist for Fusion Specialty Pharmacy. "By providing compounding services, we can provide customized medications to meet the prescription needs of all of our customers."

According to Medgadget.com, senior citizens and children are the prime users of compounded prescriptions. As populations increase, there will be more of a need for compounding pharmacies. According to the article, "The compounding pharmacy market will also be fueled by the shortage of mass manufactured drugs among people." More about how population will continue to affect the rise of compounding medications can be seen at

Often, large pharmaceutical companies discontinue medications. This can happen when there is not a large enough number of patients who are taking the medication, which makes it unprofitable for pharmaceutical manufacturers to keep producing it.

Unfortunately, when a medication is discontinued, it can leave many patients without the medication that they need. Compounding pharmacies allow these patients to have the medicine that they need, even when the manufacturer discontinues it, by essentially recreating the medication for that patient. Compounded medications also help to meet medication needs for those suffering from allergies or sinus irritation, or patients who have unique dosage requirements.

"Every ingredient that we use to compound medications is of the highest possible quality," says Taylor. "We strive to provide our customers with the very best medications, and the highest customer service available."

Fusion Specialty Pharmacy uses an independent laboratory to test products and ensure they are at USP standards. The pharmacy employs only highly trained pharmacists and certified technicians for compounding, uses techniques that ensure each prescription is precisely formulated, and all mediations are verified for quality and accuracy. Fusion Specialty Pharmacy is PCAB accredited to the highest standard of quality compounds for their patients.

Pharmacists are available to counsel patients regarding prescriptions and to increase compliance and improve overall health outcomes. More about Fusion Specialty Pharmacy can be seen at the company's website, www.fusionspecialtypharmacy.com.
