Houston NEC Dealer Hooper Communications Launches New Website

December 17, 2019

December 17, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Houston NEC Dealer Hooper Communications is excited to announce the long-awaited and complete redesign of the company's website www.hoopercom.com. It now provides the visitor with a user-friendly, modern and professional experience.

Serving the Houston, Texas area, Hooper Communications has been a leading service provider for on-premise, cloud-based VoIP and digital telephone systems for over 33 years. Now the company can better serve its clients with a website that showcases high-quality business telephone system solutions from NEC, as well as other service offerings, include Data Cabling, IT Service and Support, and Carrier Services.

"We are excited about the new website redesign and the detailed content that it provides to our site visitors," explained President - Robert Hooper. "The company will be updating product and service offerings on an ongoing basis to keep the site content fresh and accurate."

One of the most commonly asked questions the firm receives is, "what differentiates Hooper Communications from other phone system providers?" Said Mr. Hooper, "We do not offer cookie-cutter solutions. Hooper

Communications custom designs business phone systems tailored to match the exact needs of our clients. None of our phone systems installation designs are ever the same. Beyond the initial installation - Hooper separates itself from the competition with our experienced team of over 30 years in the industry supporting our clients."

The new Hooper Communications website has simple, straightforward navigation and has been optimized to reduce page loading speeds. This will provide a better user experience across all platforms and devices.
