

Tucson Garage Door Repair Company Shares Another Favorable Review They Received

January 03, 2020

AJ's Garage Door Service of Tucson has just received yet another 5 out of 5-star review that they wanted to share. This garage door services provider is a locally owned company that has been servicing Tucson and the surrounding areas for many years now.

Here is what customer Barb Jones had to say in that recent glowing review, ?I want to thank Will for doing a great job repairing my garage door, it was not working at all and he came right out the same day and fixed it for a very reasonable price. Also, the customer service I received was very nice. I recommend this company to anyone that needs Garage Door Service.? This review was taken from the company?s Google Maps business page.

Company manager Andrew Johns had this to say about this recent 5-star and the many others that they have received, ?As a business owner I always appreciate it when a customer such as Ms. Jones takes the time to let us know how they feel about the work we did. Businesses like mine use reviews to affirm what we are doing right and as a measuring stick on how to do things even better in the future. Fortunately, we have not gotten many reviews that were not 5 out of 5 stars but even a negative review would be taken in stride because it helps any business make their services even better. As a sign of appreciation, I always try to personally respond to every review that is written on the company.?

Johns also said that the service techs at his company always do the skilled work that is necessary to get very positive reviews like this one. He says all his service techs are well-trained and experienced. They are among the best that anyone will find working in the Tucson area according to Johns. Johns added that everyone at the company knows the importance of good customer service too. He also says he and the service techs always talk about ways to improve upon their service every time they get together for meetings. He also stressed that his company is not only committed to doing good garage door service work and treating their customers the right way, but he also pledges to keep their prices fair and competitive. They can keep their prices reasonable because they are a small operation and that helps keep their overhead low according to the owner.

Despite being small, AJ's Garage Door Service of Tucson offers a large variety of garage door repair and installation services. Johns says that they can do everything from simple garage door track realignments to remote switch repairs. The company also does spring repair work in a very safe manner. Johns advises that no customer should attempt to repair their garage door spring themselves unless they have the knowledge and the right equipment to do it; otherwise, serious injury could result.

The company also does complete garage door opener replacements. The owner says that if anyone?s garage door is operating very slow when opening or closing or is noisy, it may be time to consider purchasing a new garage door opener. Johns says that newer style garage door openers are quieter than ever before and many can also be operated from a mobile phone or other smart device. They also do garage door maintenance such as changing rollers and lubing the door to make a big difference in how loud the door is as well as how well it operates.

The company also provides quality garage door services in Vail and Oro Valley. Johns encourages anyone that wants to know more about their specialty garage door services to call or check out the company website. He says there is also a quick callback form on the ?contact us page? of the website. If someone takes the time to fill that out and send it in, the owner will get back to them just as soon as possible.
