Summit, New Jersey based Ethos Spa would like to make clients who may be interested in body contouring aware of the spa's Coolsculpting Center. At the New Jersey Center for CoolSculpting, they perform hundreds of body contouring sessions every month. Each session is held in the comfort of a peaceful and luxurious office by highly qualified specialists. The procedure is known to be highly effective, and many of Ethos Spa's clients have seen great results with the New Jersey based sculpting center's procedures.

Coolsculpting is a new and innovative way to freeze unwanted fat cells, which are then naturally digested by the body. The procedure is meant to provide a non-surgical alternative method of fat removal. The process is less invasive and targets only the unwanted fat cells. It is also pain free, and there is very little to no recovery time compared to more traditional methods like liposuction. "Since the fat cells are actually frozen and shrunk, there's no possibility of fat transfer," says the NJ Center for CoolSculpting. "It's also a part of the now famous Mommy Makeover procedure, which helps women get their bodies back after giving birth. If you're big on skin care, you'll definitely love it!"

The procedure is highly effective and suitable for anyone with unwanted or stubborn fat in certain areas, such as the chin, arms, belly or breast area. Coolsculpting is best used on men and women who already lead a healthy lifestyle and are close to their ideal body weight. It is primarily meant to remove stubborn excess fat that simply refuses to burn away despite diet and exercise. The process is FDA approved for the treatment of visible fat bulges all over the body. It is completely safe, and clients hardly ever complain about any pain or discomfort. ?When the procedure starts, you'll feel an intense chilling of the area being targeted, and that area will typically go numb within a few minutes. Aside from the cold, you'll feel some pulling as the skin is suctioned against the machine. Feel free to read, use your phone or even take a nap during the treatment,? says Ethos Spa.

The Coolsculpting center?s staff is made up of a number of board-certified doctors, certified aestheticians and licensed physician assistants who have all managed to make a name for themselves as national leaders in body contouring. The center makes it a point to ensure that every client feels completely at home during every session and that they receive highly effective treatment. ?Our staff is committed to providing the safest and most effective treatments to reduce stubborn, unwanted fat from your body. Our mission is to help you look & feel your best?both inside and outside,? says the center. Visit their GMB Website and other resources online to learn more.
