

Sands Towing Seeing Roadside Assistance Service Boom in Miami FL

December 30, 2019

December 30, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

With the unprecedented growth in Florida's population, Sands Towing sets its eyes on surging demand for towing and roadside assistance services in Miami, Florida. Among the cities in Florida, Miami has grown twice as fast in the last decade and is seen to overtake Jacksonville as the largest city in Florida in terms of population. The increase in population growth is largely attributed to immigration as more people especially coming from South America are relocating in the city, which has been dubbed as the Capital of Latin America. Many retirees are also attracted by the great weather and beautiful beaches of Miami.

Earl McCartney, the spokesperson of Sands Towing, says, "We are expecting demand for roadside assistance services as more people are buying cars and more car owners lack basic skills for car maintenance." In response to these trends, the tow truck provider has heightened its presence in the Miami region by hiring more workers and deploying them in key locations throughout the city.

"Motorists from Hialeah, Opa Locka, Hallandale, Pembroke Pines, and Fort Lauderdale, among others can experience faster response times than before. Our additional tow crews will be evenly spread within the 25 miles of Miami, FL. All our customers will enjoy a 30-minute arrival time to their location when they call for help," says McCartney. A complete directory of their service areas can be accessed at <http://gmbp.in/u/5d701f95d3b50>.

McCartney explained that people should always prepare their cars before driving especially when making long trips. However, if their car breakdowns along the road for whatever reason, they can count on Sands Towing to always be on call for emergency assistance.

He added, "Our company responds to several roadside issues and concerns daily. Among the common assistances that we provide include battery jumpstarts, winch out services, fuel delivery, spare tire change, and car lockout help." In addition to these, the majority of issues the company undertakes include mechanical problems due to extreme weather conditions like failing batteries, brake changes, air conditioner systems, and radiator leaks. Sands Towing technicians can also perform a simple repair of minor engine and mechanical breakdowns. Investing in training and technology has been one of the principal ways how Sands Towing gives value to the customer over the years. Complementing their expanded service, all workers also undergo regular training to update their knowledge. McCartney explains that workers need to continue to learn how to fix new car models. Old car models are phased out and their knowledge can become obsolete unless they abreast themselves to new technology. Also, buying good equipment is important. It makes people work faster, more efficient and more accurate.

Mornings are busy at Sands Towing. The evenings and wee hours of the night can be equally busy. Sands Towing is one of the first tow truck service providers in the city to be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. McCartney says that it is one of the major features that has quickly established them as the most reliable go-to towing company in Miami.

McCartney also says that access to roadside assistance service is critical especially in light of a recent study that showed Miami having one of the highest crime rates in America. The company's road services are primarily aimed at keeping stranded motorists safe. "We intensified our presence in areas such as Liberty and the down south regions of Goulds and Naranja," he added.

In closing, McCartney encourages people to call them when they experience any roadside problems while in Miami, Florida. "We have grown with the city since we started years ago and are proud to be a part of such a wonderful and supportive city," he added.
