With more vehicles breaking down during the cold season, Superior Towing assures motorists in Richmond, VA that they are fully prepared for roadside assistance service. Keon Ireland, the company representative stresses, "Roadside assistance can mean the difference between life and death during the winter season that is why we are ramping up our services."

In many parts of Richmond, VA, winter comes with slippery icy roads and cold temperatures. These severe conditions can impair both people and machines. People traveling a lot during winter should make optimal preparations. One of the most important and easiest ways to prepare is to put the hotline number of Superior Towing, which you can immediately contact in the event of emergency car breakdowns. Road assistance is very common during winter because of the high probability of losing control when driving on icy roads. The traction of car tires on roads decreases significantly. Even skilled drivers who use winter tires are vulnerable. Ireland encourages motorists to immediately call their emergency hotline when their vehicles find their way off the road. Simple jobs like changing a flat tire in cold weather can be extremely dangerous to people. Motorists should leave the matter to professional experts from Superior Towing.

In response to the greater incidences of roadside problems, the tow truck company has hired additional towing crews to intensify their presence in their service areas. The newly activated teams were assigned in mishap-prone areas such as Penn Acres, Drewrys Bluff, Fairpines, Beulah, Buford Estates, Montrose Heights and Windsor Farms among others. While regular car maintenance can help prevent breakdowns, the potential for sudden car problems remains high during winter. This is primarily because car components tend to function poorly during extreme cold. At freezing point temperatures, a fully charged battery can lose 30% of its power. This makes batteries weaker that is why drain batteries are customary last during cold winter seasons.

Winding up stranded in the middle of nowhere because of a dead battery, encircled by an ice-covered surrounding can be quite terrifying. Superior Towing's roadside help will help drivers boost the battery quickly and proficiently.

Locksmith service is also common driver assistance during winter. The cold weather can freeze car lock systems. Being locked out during cold weather can be extremely unsafe especially if it occurs in a less populated area. Superior Towing has reputable professional mechanics and locksmiths that can help motorists stuck outside their cars.

The premier tow truck provider also offers emergency fluid solutions. Fluid leaks are frequent during winter because the duct tubes and pipes of cars become brittle and prone to cracks and fissures. Minor fluid leaks can slowly drain the fluids like coolants and the engine becomes vulnerable to overheating especially because of excessive use of air conditioning.

Fuel or gas delivery also forms part of the company's fluid solutions. Some cars suffer gas gauge malfunctions because of the cold weather. Still, other drivers are unable to estimate that their cars would normally consume more fuel when using air conditioning and driving in cold weather. The company offers fuel delivery services as well as other liquids such as antifreeze fluids needed by the car.

With car breakdowns on the surge during the cold months, Superior Towing has responded by augmenting their 24-7 roadside assistance services in Richmond VA and the surrounding areas. The company takes pleasure in serving the people of the River City in Virginia as it continues to meet their needs and expectations.
