HUD512 Austin House Buyers, a real estate consultant based in Austin, Texas, is pleased to announce that they have published a new blog post explaining reasons why selling to an iBuyer is risky for Austin homeowners. Unlike iBuyers, HUD512 Austin House Buyers are local We Buy Houses Austin TX cash home buyers. The company purchases homes directly from the homeowners, cutting out the need for agents and middlemen. Cole Rady, a representative for HUD512 Austin House Buyers, says, "The rise of iBuyers is having a dramatic effect on the real estate market. While the convenience can be appealing, there are ways to sell that are just as easy, without costing you a fortune in costs, high service fees, and repairs. When you work with an iBuyer to sell your house in Austin, the process won't be nearly as personal as working with a local agent or a local home buyer such as HUD512. An iBuyer isn't going to take the time to get to know you and your personal situation. iBuyers will typically throw out an offer and move onto the next house. In many cases, you are just a number to them!"

Rady further added, "From knowing the neighborhood to understanding what is possible with the property, iBuyers just aren't going to get it. iBuyers typically buy houses nationwide, making it nearly impossible for them to understand every nuance of your local real estate market. As local home buyers, we understand the local market better than anyone. We will always pay you a fair price, closing on the day that is best for you. When you work with an iBuyer, you will be on their schedule, possibly even asked to clean up before you go."

In cases where an iBuyer company is willing to do the repairs themselves, they will require that the cost of the repairs is added to the fees that the seller has to pay the iBuyer when the deal is finalized. This has actually led to a concern in the real estate industry, where a common complaint is that iBuyers often tend to ask for more repairs than are actually necessary—and at a higher cost than is warranted. With We Buy Houses companies, however, this is not a concern as they do not require any extra charges for repairs.

Sky Rady, another representative for HUD512 Austin House Buyers, says, "At HUD512 Austin House Buyers, we do our absolute best to treat our clients fairly. Selling a house isn't an easy process, and what we want is to make it as easy as possible on the sellers. To that end, we take care of nearly all fees and extra costs without requiring any additional fees ourselves. We also take care of all the repairs. We also try to offer a fair price, taking into account various factors. Sure, we want to buy your house but, in the end, we just want to make everything easy for everyone. If it turns out that your best option isn't to sell to us, we'll let you know and offer alternatives. HUD512 Austin House Buyers does their best to put the community first."

The HUD512 Austin House Buyers' dedication to the community is backed up by their customer reviews. Dorothy Newman says, "When I needed to sell my Austin TX house fast, HUD512 Austin House Buyers really came through for me. Not only was their offer more than what I was expecting, but they also treated me with such courtesy and compassion. That means a lot during tough times.
